Wounded City Pilot Flies Bomber Home

WITH CANADIANS IN THE RAF.—A Canadian Halifax pilot in the RAF recently brought back his wounded crew mates after being attacked three times by a German fighter over Belgium. Four of the seven were wounded.

The pilot was Flight Sgt. Kenneth Lawrence Long, 23, son of Mrs. Thomas Long, the Devonshire Apartments, Edmonton. In "Leo the Lion," he started out to bomb the Bourg Leopold military camp between Antwerp and Brussels. As bombs rained on the target, fires were visible to returning crews 50 miles away.

As they neared the Belgian coast enroute for England, tracer bullets from an unseen night fighter ripped through the aircraft's fuselage. Flames licked up from the bomb bay. One starboard engine stopped and the bomber swerved. Flight Sgt. Long grimly fought to regain control of the heavy craft as it plunged seaward.

Long turned the machine back toward enemy-held territory and ordered the crew to prepare to bail out. As he reached Belgium again a night fighter attacked for the

City Outflanked Russians Tighten Siege of Warsaw

Montreal Is Hit By Tram Strike

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.—(CP)—Huge fleets of trucks backed up by all available taxis and private automobiles, worked today to take some of the edge off a complete tie-up of the city's tram and bus services.

As employees of Montreal tramways started their third walkout within 17 months, strike-wise Montrealers put into operation plans that had been in the making for the last few days as hopes for settlement of the dispute faded and the conviction grew that another tie-up was inevitable.

Today, the employees of scores of large factories gathered at strategic points throughout the city, to be picked up by fleets of trucks that took thousands to their jobs. The selected corners blossomed out suddenly in the huge signs indicating which company had selected each particular corner as a pick-up point.

Trucks were augmented by taxis and by private vehicles, most of which picked up pedestrians until they were full.

Editor Dies

OTTAWA, Aug. 3.—(CP)—James Muir, 73, editor of the Dominion bureau of statistics publications and a former managing editor of the Ottawa Journal, died last night after a short illness.

Information For Election Tuesday, Aug. 8

You still have a chance of getting your name on the voters' list if it is not there. Call at the returning officer's headquarters until 4 p.m. Saturday to apply for inclusion.

The advance poll for this city will be held at the returning officer's headquarters on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Voting will take place from 2 until 5 p.m. and from 7 until 10 p.m. on each day.

On election day polls in the cities will be open from 9 a.m. until 7 p.m., and rural polls will be open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

The soldiers' vote will be taken at 20 stations throughout the province on Monday, Aug. 7.

The complete official list of nominations will be found in tabulated form on Page 8.

The Result You Want

Many excellent candidates of all parties are appealing for your vote. You—the voter—have the power for one day—Tuesday, August 8—to determine what result you want for the next four or five years.

The Manning Social Credit Government is admittedly the most progressive provincial government in Canada, operating for the people, of the people and by the people. In fact, the CCF won the Saskatchewan election by appealing for votes on what had been accomplished by the Manning Government in Alberta.

The CCF in Alberta, with a host of outside speakers, is making a different appeal. Here, they want to take over all the oil companies showing a profit; but not those with little or no profit. They want to socialize the breweries, although in Saskatchewan they have already admitted they do not intend to do so. In short, their aim is to abolish profit from private industry and institute state socialism.

Do you want that?

If you want Alberta to maintain its leading position, you will give your first choice vote to your Social Credit candidate.

Forty-seven single-member constituencies have the transferable vote. In the election of 1935, not one result was changed in these constituencies by the second choice vote. Only two were changed in 1940. Social Credit won one and lost one on the second choice votes. REMEMBER FIRST CHOICE VOTES ELECT!

In Edmonton and Calgary, with five members each, the voter has only one actual vote, but he has the privilege of marking his ballot 1-2-3-4-5 for the five Social Credit candidates in the order of his preference. In addition, he can mark 6-7-8 and so on up to the total list of 20 candidates.

This election is not one of this or that candidate but the return or defeat of the Manning Government.

THINK and then VOTE August 8.

Edmonton Airman Helps to Destroy Foe Ammunition

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(CP)—Canadian crews of RAF medium bombers which attacked an enemy ammunition dump near Angers, France, said last night a pillar of smoke was rising 2,000 feet above their target as they headed back to England.

"There was good visibility and as far as I could see all machines hit the target," said Sgt. Cy Polissant of Edmonton.

Other Canadians on the raid included St. Ed. Kornelovich, Winnipeg, and Flt.-Lt. R. L. Logie, Vancouver.

Manitoba Soldier Among Canadians Nazis Murdered

Rt. Hon. Thomas, a member of the Royal Winnipeg Rifles, first was reported missing, and then killed in action, June 8. He enlisted here in 1940 and went overseas two years ago.

Strong Forces Allied Bombers Carry Out Big Daylight Raids

LONDON, Aug. 3.—A huge striking force of some 750 Italian-based Fortress and Liberator bombers smashed at the Nazi aircraft manufacturing centre of Friedrichshafen on the German-Swiss frontier today and ripped up enemy communications lines funneling into the Brenner Pass from northern Italy.

Preliminary accounts of the Friedrichshafen raid gave no details on the damage inflicted on the city's giant aircraft engine and assembly plants, but Zurich dispatches said the thunder of violent explosions rocked Swiss frontier towns for full 25 minutes.

Part of the task force veered off to the east to lay their blockbusters across the network of bridges and railway lines running through the Alps into Germany, including a railway viaduct on the Brenner Pass route.

HEAVY DAY ATTACKS

The daylight raids came after a 24-hour period during which Allied aircraft ranged from Belgium to the Bay of Biscay, smashing rail and highway transport, ammunition and fuel dumps, enemy shipping.

British Troops Capture Height Over Florence

ROME, Aug. 3.—British troops stormed and captured the heights of Mount La Poggio overlooking Florence from the southwest, it was disclosed today, while other 8th Army forces hammered out small gains in furious fighting on the western and southern approaches to the city.

Everywhere along the 21-mile siege area below Florence the Germans were battling tenaciously to hold their remaining hill positions against a British "squeeze" attack pressing them slowly into a narrowing triangular pocket based on the south bank of the Arno river.

German self-propelled guns and heavy artillery thundered into action from dangerously exposed positions south of Florence, adding their support to the storm of machine gun and mortar fire being hurled against the advancing British.

4 MILES FROM CITY

Mount La Poggio fell to New Zealand armored units yesterday after a savage battle in the hills above San Michele, putting the New Zealanders little more than four miles from the outskirts of Florence.

At the same time, British Indian troops on their left flank burst across the Pass river on a broad front below Montepulciano and pushed on more than a mile to within nine miles west of Florence.

King George Flies Back to Britain

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(CP)—King George returned to Britain today after touring the Italian battle areas, landing somewhere in England at 7 a.m. after an uneventful flight. During his visit to Italy His Majesty visited members of the Canadian Corps, and personally decorated Major John Keefer Mahony of New Westminster, B.C., with the Victoria Cross. He inspected Canadian units, chatting with officers and men.

Americans Capture Rennes, To Drive Deep Into Brittany

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Aug. 3.—(CP)—American armored columns, pressing into the heart of Brittany, captured Rennes today, while at every other point along a 120-mile front British and American forces were stabbing powerfully into the flanks of the enemy. Canadian troops struck out with a new attack south of Caen which imperilled the whole Nazi defence in Western France.

The American thrust to Rennes, ancient capital of Brittany and important rail and highway centre, came after a two-day advance which carried them 45 miles from Avranches.

Official Says:

Soldier Ballot Is Postponed Until August 7

Voting by Alberta service men and women stationed at military centres through the province has been changed from Friday, Aug. 4 to Monday, Aug. 7, it was announced Thursday by Robert A. Anderson, chief electoral officer for Alberta. An order-in-council validating the change was signed this morning by Premier Ernest Manning.

Change in the voting day was necessitated by lack of time to complete final arrangements. In some cases, ballots to be sent to military voting centres have not been received from returning officers in outlying constituencies.

Under the military vote plan, Alberta servicemen and women qualified to vote will be given a ballot from their home constituency.

Marked ballots will be returned to election headquarters of the government, and from there will be forwarded to returning officers for inclusion in counting of civilian ballots cast on Aug. 8.

It has been estimated the number of service men eligible to vote in the special polling will exceed 4,000. The figure includes soldiers, sailors, airmen and members of affiliated women's services.

James Thomson, Edmonton, is special returning officer for the soldier voting, and Lt. Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., chairman Veterans' Welfare Commission, and Gilbert Murray have been named election clerks for the vote.

Says Wage Award Not Satisfactory

WINNIPEG, Aug. 3.—(CP)—W. Aspinall of Winnipeg, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees (AFM) in a statement issued here last night, said the recent national labor board decision in the maintenance of way case "is far from satisfactory."

"The N.W.E.B. announced Monday an increase of six cents an hour in wages of all hourly rated Canadian railway workers, retroactive to last Sept. 15. The application of the 18 brotherhoods was for general levelling of rates paid Canadian railroad workers with those in effect on eastern United States lines."

No attempt is made to adjust existing inequalities in rates paid men of the B.N.W.E. and rates paid other railway employees engaged in similar work, the statement said.

"This will mean that maintenance of way employees will again have to initiate a wage movement in an effort to have these injustices rectified. Until this is done, dissatisfaction will continue."

Superforts Scored Direct Hits on Jap Plants at Anshan

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—(AP)—The B-29 Superfortresses which struck the Japanese steel works at Anshan in Manchuria scored direct hits on coke ovens and other factory buildings in an important blow at the enemy's war making capacity, War Secretary Stimson reported today.

Stimson told a news conference the attack was carried out by a "substantial" force of the United States army's new super bombers, which hit Anshan and Tangku, the Port of Tientsin in occupied China, on July 29.

1,100 Employees Of Tire Factory Stage Walkout

KITCHENER, Ont., Aug. 3.—(CP)—An estimated 1,100 employees of the Dominion tire factory in Kitchener are on strike today. The workers are members of the United Rubber Workers of America (CIO).

Carl Fitzgerald, president of Local 80 of the union, said the company has used the bargaining procedure outlined in a union-company agreement to stall off fair adjustments in the standard wage rates as they apply in the press room.

Big Barrage Robot Bombs Blast London

By JACK FRANKISH
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

LONDON, Aug. 3.—A murderous barrage of Nazi robot bombs rocked London and parts of southern England throughout last night and the early morning hours today, striking seven hospitals, among other targets, and piling up a heavy toll of killed and wounded civilians.

Apparently trying to swamp the defences, the Germans pushed off big salvos of their deadly flying bombs at frequent intervals, using an unusually large proportion of "glider" robots that dropped silently from the skies to bury their victims with scarcely a moment's warning.

TWO BURIED ALIVE

At one stricken hospital where damage was estimated at $600,000, two patients were buried alive under tons of debris and little hope was held for their rescue.

An hour later, while swarming rescue squads still were digging frantically through the debris in search of the victims, two babies were born in another wing of the building.

Doctors and nurses stayed at their posts to take care of a stream of injured men, women and children pouring in from wrecked homes in the neighborhood.

Ten patients were killed in another hospital when a blind bomb crashed directly into a ward crowded with aged people and chronic invalids. About 200 patients were in the building at the time, and it was feared that the toll of wounded would be heavy.

CCF Planning
To Take Over
Calgary Power

DRUMHELLER, Aug. 3.—(CP)—Elmer Roper, provincial CCF leader, said in an Alberta election campaign speech last night that one of the first acts of a CCF government if elected would be to take over the Calgary Power Co., the leading Alberta power company.

"Premier (Adelard) Godbout of Quebec is trying to save his political skin by taking over the Montreal Light, Heat and Power Co., but I doubt if it will save him," said Mr. Roper.

"But taking over these companies is the only way to ensure there will be rural electrification such as is so urgently needed by farmers today," Alberta and Quebec provincial elections are on the same day—Aug. 8. Mr. Godbout leads a Liberal administration.

SAID CONSTITUTIONAL

Speaking in this coal mining centre, Mr. Roper said he had been informed by a lawyer who was an authority on constitutional questions that a CCF government could carry through its plans to take over companies giving essential service to the public. He said he challenged the Calgary Herald to give the name of a lawyer who had expressed an opposite view in an article.

Fred Thyso, CCF candidate in the Drumheller constituency, said the provincial Social Credit government had failed to aid the coal industry. A Department of Mines should be established and steps taken to reduce the accident rate.

Sam Guthrie, British Columbia, MLA for Cowichan-Newcastle, said it was false to suggest that the CCF would not trade with all other countries.

The development of free world trade was a CCF objective as com-

Units Identified
2 More Ontario Regiments
Supporting Canuck Forces
In Action South of Caen

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, Aug. 3.—(CP)—Two more Ontario regiments—the Toronto Scottish and the Lincoln and Welland regiments—were disclosed last night to be taking part in the fighting on the Canadian front in Normandy.

The Toronto Scottish is a support battalion and with Vickers machine-guns and heavy mortars has been supporting Canadian forces in actions south of Caen. Some troops of this regiment manned machine-guns in the famous Dieppe action in August, 1942.

The Lincoln and Welland regiment, an infantry unit, also has been engaged in fighting south of Caen.

Earlier yesterday the regiment De Maisonneuve of Montreal was named as fighting in France, and it was disclosed that 14 regiments which landed on D-Day had shared in the fighting up to the end of July.

54 DAYS IN LINE

For 54 consecutive days these 14 units were in the front line, fighting a long series of successful actions which carried them from the beaches to Caen and beyond.

They fought one engagement after another and went through nerve-racking weeks without relief or rest, beat off German counter-attacks, and then took the offensive to break into Caen in support of British forces, cross the Orne river and share in the advance south of the city.

Nine infantry regiments, one support battalion, one armored car regiment and three tank regiments with their artillery regiments and services, shared the marathon ordeal.

NAMES OF UNITS

The units were:

- 1st Hussars, London, Ont.
- Fort Garry Horse, Winnipeg.
- Sherbrooke Fusilier Regiment, Sherbrooke, Que.
- Royal Winnipeg Rifles, Winnipeg.
- Regina Rifles, Regina.
- Canadian Scottish Regiment, Victoria.
- Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, Toronto.
- North Shore (New Brunswick) Regiment, New Castle, N.B.
- Le Regiment De La Chaudiere, Lake Megantic, Que.
- Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, Cornwall, Ont.
- North Nova Scotia Highlanders, Amherst, N.S.
- Highland Light Infantry of Canada, Galt, Ont.
- Cameron Highlanders of Canada, Ottawa.
- 17th Duke of York's Royal Canadian Hussars.

Employment of these units up to a line west and northwest of Caen, where strong enemy counter-attacks were beaten off.

Between June 15 and the Canadian attack on Carpiquet July 4, the Winnipeg and Regina Rifles and the Canadian Scottish held firmly to positions around Breteville with the 1st Hussars.

ADVANCE FROM WOODS

At dawn on July 3 the Chaudieres, North Shores and Queen's Own advanced from the woods south of the highway and over grain fields behind a strong artillery barrage to enter and capture Carpiquet village. They were accompanied by the Fort Garry tanks.

Simultaneously the Winnipeg Rifles attacked hangars on the south side of Carpiquet airfield but were ordered out of their positions the following evening because of intense German fire.

For five days the three battalions and tanks held Carpiquet with the Germans on three sides of them. They were relieved July 8 when the Highland Light Infantry, the Glengarrys and the North Novas attacked from Les Bruissens to capture Buron, Grunchy, Authie and Franqueville, and link up with the Carpiquet garrison.

British forces meanwhile were attacking Caen and July 9 Canadian Highland units and Sherbrooke tanks took half the city. Prior to this blow, however, the Canadian Scottish, Regina Rifles and Winnipeg Rifles, with tanks of the 1st Hussars, cleaned out the village of Cussy and other strongpoints on the western outskirts of Caen.

FIRST AT ORNE

The 17th Hussars sent armored cars into Caen very early and were first to reach the river Orne.

Army units crossing the Orne into Vaucelles were the Regins, the Canadian Scottish and Winnipeg, while south of Vaucelles the Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment of Canada) from Montreal, also effected a crossing.

Western troops occupied Comelles, south of Vaucelles, and the North Novas took Bras still further south. Meanwhile other Canadian troops who had arrived in France weeks before pushed ahead to Strande and Verrieres on the right flank—units like the Queen's Own Cameron Highlanders of Winnipeg, the South Saskatchewan Regiment, the Fusiliers Mont-Royal, the Black Watch, the Calgary Highlanders and the Regiment de Maisonneuve.

The Essex Scottish, the Royal Regiment and the RHIL, also came into this new line. On July 25, the Canadians launched another attack against the German defence line which had been dug across the vital Caen-Falaise highway between Orne and Tilly La Campagne four miles to the east. Fresh Canadian troops on the right flank bore most of the burden of this battle, which was unable to make much progress.

General Crerar's Message
To Troops After Murders

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, Aug. 3.—(CP)—Text of a message from Lt.-Gen. Crerar to Canadian troops in France on the murder of 19 captured Canadian soldiers:

I consider it necessary that all Canadian troops serving in the 21st Army group should be informed officially by me that on June 8 near Pavie in Calvados, Normandy, certain personnel of the 3rd Canadian Infantry Division who had been captured by the enemy were murdered by members of the German army.

A court of inquiry assembled at my request and composed of senior officers of the British, American and Canadian armies has completed exhaustive enquiries and has examined all available evidence.

NINETEEN MURDERED

It finds that on that date and place mentioned above 19 Canadian soldiers, including one officer, were deliberately murdered by members of the 12th SS Panzer division (Hitler Jugend) in clear violation of the well-organized laws and usages of war. All were members of a Canadian infantry brigade.

This is the brief story of an abhorrent act. There is no shadow of doubt as to its authenticity nor can there be any doubt as to the deep anger which will rise in the heart and mind of every Canadian on hearing of what has taken place. It is because I realize the anger which you all will feel that I want definite guidance from me to reach all ranks at this time.

The universal and natural determination of Canadian soldiers to avenge the death of our comrades must not under any circumstances take the form of retaliation in kind. The commission of atrocities will be left as a bestial prerogative of Hitler's Germans. Instead, Canadian anger must be converted into a steel-hard determination to destroy the enemy in battle, to hit harder, to advance faster and above all, never to stop fighting and fighting hard while life remains.

If any reminder was needed by any of us concerning the issues we are fighting for and the evil force we are fighting against, this has surely been provided.

Series of Strikes

Of Girl Cashier

SYDNEY, Australia, Aug. 3.—(CP)—A series of strikes which started after an 18-year-old girl cashier in a butcher shop had been discharged for incompetency reached such proportions yesterday that Prime Minister Curtin invoked national security regulations.

He ordered the 2,500 participants in New South Wales communities to return to work Thursday. After the girl had been dismissed, fellow-employees walked out, charging the cashier had been dismissed without reason. Soon the sympathy strike had closed 13 mines and was threatening the output of small arms factories.

In Stellarton, the strike of nearly 1,000 miners from three pits of the Acadia Coal Company is in its fifth day.

There have been few developments in the Halifax shipyards strike as neither the Industrial Union, marine and Shipbuilding Workers, (C.C.L.), which called the strike, nor the company's management showed any indications of reaching an agreement.

WILD LIFE PLentiful

Walking along marked paths in the valley or through the mountains, you will may meet a bear ambling along . . . a deer might fly past you or a goat may gaze your way . . . and chattering squirrels are definitely a part of the scene. The animals are at home there, and harmless unless attacked.

Municipal Administration

The changes made in municipal administration in Alberta during the past three years add materially to the fine administrative record of the Manning Social Credit Government.

Under the old municipal system there were 140 districts in the province. Thus, up to 1941, these small districts were operated with many disadvantages.

The overhead cost was too large for the amount of taxes collected. The road policy was inefficient and haphazard. The system of municipal accounting was obsolete. The books were balanced only once a year.

In 1941 the Manning Social Credit Government effected certain changes under the Municipal District Act which resolved these 140 districts into larger divisions numbering only 60. This has resulted in better administration, greater service and economy and more effective local government. Specifically, the benefits are these:

The overhead has been greatly reduced. More efficient roadwork has been secured at less cost.

A modern accounting system has been installed and the books are balanced monthly.

The new system tends to systematically decentralize government services, to place local government on the tried and proven county system and to enable the people to obtain increased services under closer local supervision by the electors.

This is sound businesslike government. It should commend itself to thinking electors on August 8.

Kingly Kings

Today King Haakon of Norway is 72 years old. Like the years of his brother the King of Denmark, those years are milestones of honor. He will go down in history as a kingly king.

When the Germans attacked Norway in April 1940, King Haakon had reigned in Norway for 34 progressive years. He had gained a position of utmost respect and popularity.

His conduct, during the trying years of war, has, if possible, increased that respect, not only of his own people, but of the world.

At the time of the invasion, King Haakon was determined to remain among his people. But, for some reason, the Nazis were bent on his death. He was hunted with machine guns from city to city, from house to house, until he was persuaded, much against his will, that the only way to preserve the continuity of Norwegian government was to establish himself in London.

King Haakon, like his brother of Denmark, has shown the world how a king should behave. He has added lustre to royalty.

Strange Anomaly

The processes of democracy are sometimes weird. None is weirder than that exemplified in the case of the 2,000 Japanese who are to be permitted to vote in the provincial election next week.

These 2,000 Japanese were sent to Alberta early in 1942 to get them away from the Pacific coastal area where they were regarded, inferentially, as potential saboteurs and spies. They were settled in the electoral constituencies of Warner, Taber and Macleod.

It seems, however, that they are all British subjects and, as such, are entitled to a vote. Having resided in Alberta for one year, they have the right to each cast a ballot in the Alberta election.

Here, then, we have a group of people who were considered too dangerous to remain in British Columbia, but are now considered safe enough to have a voice in the election of a provincial government. Their citizenship was not good enough to permit them to remain in their homes. But it is good enough to give them a vote.

Never has the status of the franchise fallen to lower estate than in this ruling. In a democracy a vote should be regarded as the most exalted privilege of citizenship. For the ballot box is the court of highest appeal. It is the final and complete authority. Out of it come all social and economic decisions. It holds the power of life and death.

But in this instance the vote and the ballot box are degraded to the level of a mere social rite, a tribal dance.

Men and women who are suspected of treasonable designs against the country's security are offhandedly, on an indifferent technicality, awarded the most sacred palm of citizenship—as though mischievous votes could not be infinitely more dangerous than time-bombs.

Alberta election officials, of course are only carrying out the law. This time the law has blundered into a strange and despicable anomaly.

Our Turkish Friends

Turkey has broken off diplomatic and commercial relations with Germany and it is likely that she may soon declare war.

Such a step would be of inestimable benefit to the Allies. It would alter to our advantage the entire picture in the Balkans. It would give new hope to gallant Greece. It would probably force Bulgaria out of the war.

But, best of all, it would undoubtedly tend to shorten the conflict and bring hundreds of thousands of our fighting men the sooner in safety to their homes. This benefit is incalculable. Anything that will advance the date of victory is unqualifiedly good.

Yet, with all this in mind, never was good news received with less enthusiasm. For there is something inherently revolting about the thought of a nation going into a mortal struggle only for the sake of the profits. And that, of course, is Turkey's impelling motive.

She has made up her mind—as who has not?—that the Allies are sure to win. She has made up her mind that a hostile Germany can do her little harm.

So, for the sake of a place at the peace table, where she believes the spoils will be divided up, Turkey is contemplating war.

Certainly the Allies cannot afford to sneeze at any offer of assistance. But most people of the Allied nations will welcome this assistance, if it comes, with singular lack of zeal.

One remembers too well the insatiable greed of the Italians at the last peace table in Versailles. One remembers that the Italian moral degeneration dates from the moment when they stalked out of the conference because they were not permitted to pillage, at will, the Adriatic coast.

Teachers Qualifications

Speaking in Toronto, A. E. Ottewell, registrar of the University of Alberta, points out some of the essential qualifications for teachers if they are to play the fullest possible part in their community duties.

For instance, Mr. Ottewell says that the one year course in normal school does not give the potential teacher sufficient actual teaching experience with adequate corrective counsel, does not give them an adequate philosophical and psychological background. He urges that every high school teacher be required to possess a university degree.

Now this is all exceedingly apt and commonsense criticism. What Mr. Ottewell says is essentially true in every respect.

But if his implied change is carried out—and every intelligent person will admit that it should be carried out—the public will have to revise most radically its ideas of the cost of education.

The trouble is that most people are thoroughly convinced of the value of a first class educational system. Few are willing to pay for it.

It seems to be fundamental and obvious that every hour that is added to the length of a teacher's training must be calculated in his or her remuneration. Every additional dollar he or she is required to spend in preparation must be reckoned in future salaries.

These things are very definitely and properly taken into account in medical and surgical fees, in legal fees and the fees of any professional man—except the school teacher.

If the public wants better qualified teachers, the public must pay fatter salaries. And the sooner that idea is sold to the public the better.

Homemakers' Hints on Canning

Fruits, Vegetables Must Be Preserved at Home to Meet Demand

By MARY ALICE QUAYNE

As the canning season opens, you may be debating whether to can fruit and vegetables for next winter. Those who grow their own should can everything possible. Others will want to do some canning of fruit because preserve coupons do not supply us sufficiently to cope with that craving for fruit which is common to all in the winter.

Before you start this year's canning figure out how many cans of each fruit and vegetable your family is likely to need. Count your empty sealers and see that they balance with this figure. If you know you are going to need more it is advisable to order them well in advance because fruits and vegetables spoil rapidly after picking.

The sugar allowed to each ration book holder for canning fruits is issued to you in trust—so that you can help prevent good food from going to waste. Did you know that every jar of fruit which you can helps lighten the load on commercial canneries and helps relieve overworked transportation facilities?

Plan carefully how you are going to use your ration of canning sugar because sugar supplies are limited. Sugar is being brought to Canada at great risk to the lives of many, because our crop isn't sufficient to supply the Dominion.

Did you know that sugar is not needed to preserve food? It does help fruit to hold its color and flavor.

The ten pounds of sugar per person for canning purposes will preserve seventy quarts of small fruits such as berries and cherries, or forty quarts of larger fruits such as pears and peaches. These estimates are based on using a light syrup, which is made in the proportion of three parts water to one part sugar. If when the fruit is opened you find it not sweet enough add a little more sugar from your current ration.

Hints on Sealing

You will save time and trouble if you learn how to seal your canning jars before you start to prepare the food for processing. A great deal of spoilage could have been avoided last year if homemakers to whom canning was a new venture had understood the various types of jars and their proper sealing.

Read carefully the directions included with the jars. All jars should be washed, then sterilized in boiling water before filling them with food.

Next in importance to knowing your jars is the process to be used for the food you are canning. The boiling water bath or open kettle can be used to process acid foods such as fruits and tomatoes. All vegetables are best done in the pressure cooker if possible, otherwise use the hot water bath.

Steps in Canning

Use sound fruit, and be sure it is not over-ripe. Vegetables should be as fresh from the garden as possible. Be sure that your fruits and vegetables are thoroughly clean. They should be washed and lifted out of the water as sediment settles in the pan.

All vegetables and some fruits should be scalded or precooked in boiling water before packing. This shrinks the product, thus allowing you to obtain a closer pack. It also helps destroy bacteria.

Some fruits and vegetables require peeling. To prevent the discoloration of such fruits as peaches and apples drop them immediately after peeling into a brine made by adding 1 teaspoon of salt to each quart of cold water.

Inspect jars for cracks, and seal edges for cracks, chips or sharp

Conscription and Casualties

Outline of Government View That Measure Is Unnecessary

By GRANT DEXTER

If it is conceded that either a united public opinion or the failure of the voluntary system is essential to the adoption of conscription, the weakness of the present Conservative campaign will become evident. And it may clarify the present position to look back over the record of the last war.

Conscription was adopted in 1917 because the voluntary system had failed. Sir Robert Borden called parliament in May of that year and declared the need for men to be "urgent, insistent and imperative." This is more than an emergency; there is a cataclysm. The Canadian overseas forces could not be maintained. Failing conscription, the continuation of Canada as an effective fighting member of the Allies would depend on casualties. If casualties were heavy, Canada might be out of the war in two or three months. In 1917, the case for conscription had nothing to do with abstract justice or efficiency. It was a choice between conscription or retirement from the war.

Today no such situation exists. The overseas forces are at full strength and recruiting is producing the required number of men.

Several explanations in the difference between the two wars will occur to mind. In the last war we expanded the army to five divisions. Due to the manpower shortage, however, the fifth division had to be broken up (April 10, 1918) and used to reinforce the other four. This had to be done, incidentally, in spite of conscription. Our navy did not amount to much and we had no air force. In this war we have five divisions and two tank brigades overseas, a home defence force, a large air force and a powerful navy.

Owing to the course and the nature of the war, however, the casualties have been only a fraction of those incurred in the last war. It must not be thought that our military effort is less this time than last; on the contrary, it is greater in proportion to population—nowwithstanding the adoption of conscription after 1917.

Thus the population of Canada in the last war was 7,780,000 as against 11,315,000 in this war—an increase of 43 per cent. The total number of men enrolled or conscripted for military service in the last war was 619,636. In this war, up to December 31, total enrolment in the army, navy and air force was 910,129, and since then the rate of increase has been not less than 8,000 per month, which brings the total to the end of July to 966,129—exclusive of women. It will be at once suggested that the home defence force must be deducted. Some allowance may be made here, although by no means to the full extent of the N.R.M.A. intake. Some 40,000 of these men, for example, have enlisted for overseas service. The needs for home defence would require many thousands of men in any case.

To equal the record of the last war, we would this time have had to enrol 885,170 men. As shown, there is already a credit balance available for any adjustments deemed necessary.

Bearing these figures in mind, the losses in the two wars become significant. Total casualties in the present war up to May 31 were 37,073. The killed and presumed dead, total 17,022; the missing, 3,865; prisoners of war, 5,108; wounded, 11,883. The balance includes those who have died of natural causes and so on. If the army casualties in the first 15 days of the fighting in Normandy are added—2,815—the grand total of casualties becomes 40,488.

In the last war, the total casualties were 215,455, of whom (government statement of August 12, 1919) 50,889 were killed or died of wounds; 3,940 died from natural causes; 8,119 were missing; 2,818 prisoners, and 149,809 wounded.

Thus in 51 months of the last war there were 177,782 more casualties than in 57 months of this war. The saving in manpower obviously has been immense. How great, it is impossible to say, but certainly in killed alone it is 37,787 and undoubtedly among the wounded in the last war many were unfit for further service. It is to be thought that this is an experience in this war peculiar to Canada, it may be pointed out that British losses are correspondingly low, as the official announcements at London on April 4 and June 28 made clear. The Manchester Guardian made a comparison, similar to this, on British losses in the two wars on June 29, pointing out that the casualties in single battles in the last war equal total losses in the present war.

There are, however, two additional differences between the two wars. In the last war the total French Canadians obtained for service was about 12,000. This is the official estimate given to the House of Commons at that time. In this war the estimate given by the Defence department to Parliament on June 24, 1942, showed 36,140 French Canadian volunteers—not conscripts. It is reasonable to assume that the figure is at least twice as great today. The idea that the "Zombie" army is largely French Canadian is wholly untrue. The Defence department within the past few weeks has indicated that the proportion of French Canadians in the N.R.M.A. is about the same as the proportion of French Canadians of the total population.

There has been, therefore, a definite and substantial gain in military manpower due to the greater co-operation of Quebec in this war. It is not suggested that enlistments in Quebec are proportionally as great as elsewhere. But it is suggested that if 50,000 or more French Canadians had not enlisted, this number of men would have had to be found elsewhere.

The second point is that women are taking the place of men in this war, whereas very few women served in 1914-18. To date, 26,411 women are serving in the armed services, doing work which otherwise would have to be done by men. If these figures are put together and, subject to all reasonable deductions, the total is applied against Col. Ralston's present reserve of 50,000 men for overseas reinforcements, it will give a good idea of the factors which have operated to make conscription unnecessary so far. In part, the difference is due to the war itself; in part to the greater success of the manpower policies adopted since 1939.

There, no doubt, will be highly disagreeable facts to those who at the present time are promoting the political ramp for overseas conscription, but their force will be appreciated by most people who sincerely desire to do what is best in the circumstances as they exist.

Wotta World! Wotta World!

By J. H. GRAY

Pardon me, but I'm reeling. In my youth two plus two made four, the law of gravity was still in force, and black was black and not white. Now, owing to the discoveries of atomists, the revelations of economists and the improving intelligence of the public, a new synthesis has appeared in which everyone but me seems to be at five. Two plus two make five or five hundred.

Another strange parallel strikes an observer. When Mr. Aberhart came to Ottawa in 1935, immediately after his election, to ask for several millions in order to clean up various accounts, including the Alberta savings certificate scheme which was in default, he and his party had their minds fixed on the hope of widely extending their political influence outside Alberta, in other provinces and in the federal Parliament. But succeeding elections, in the provinces and in the Dominion, gradually pricked the bubble of those aspirations. Alberta lapsed into the position of splendid isolationism, in its political and economic proposals, and one of the main labors of its government in recent years has been to toll slowly back from that extreme position.

Silence

LONDON TIMES

The death has taken place near Bulawayo of the youngest son of Lobengula, the last King of the Matabele. For the last 15 years of his life he refused to speak to anyone.

Educated in England at the order of Cecil Rhodes, Ngyoyenya spoke English fluently, but on his return to the colony 20 years ago he found he had lost touch with the customs of his people and their way of living. He expected to return to a position of authority, but the chiefs of the Matabele royal house opposed him and he eventually became a dependent of the Government and lived a life of seclusion. He rarely left the house, spending most of his time reading English literature.

Emblazoned and estranged from his people, he took the vow of silence and all efforts to make him speak on the part of both Europeans and natives failed.

depending how you look at them, the law of gravity has been repealed so that the solid objectives of truth no longer remain on the ground but float in the air; and black is always white or vice-versa, unless you are color-blind. Everybody else has accommodated himself to chaos. But I am reeling.

Consider the exhibits: In Canada people flock to the CCF because they are sick of regulations, regulation and government interference with their lives. This though the CCF proposes to regulate everything. Most of the CCF support comes from people who want to vote against CCF doctrine.

In Alberta, a Social Credit government, built on the principle that debt is nonsense and that bondholders have no rights, is seeking a settlement with its own bondholders, has balanced the budget and is determined to restore its credit at the bank.

In Quebec, the Bloc Populaire is surging along on the proposition of breaking up Canada, so that it may pursue its own way of life, though neither else but in Canada could it possibly do so.

In Ottawa, Mr. Bracken attacks the government's social security program, and his party votes for it in Parliament.

In the United States, the Republican party, which voted against armaments, lend-lease, the draft and the shipment of munitions to Britain is everywhere attacking President Roosevelt because he did not get the country ready for war.

In Washington, both political parties are promising to pay off the national debt, to maintain expenditures and to reduce taxes.

In Europe, Mr. Churchill warmly praises our dear friend, Franco, for helping us win the war, and Franco announces that we cannot and must not win the war.

In Germany, Hitler announces that God Almighty has taken him under His especial care and saved him from a bomb; and then Hitler orders the murder of half his generals and every civilian in sight.

In Washington, the politicians all endorse the Atlantic Charter and the Four Freedoms and insist that all men are born free and equal; and at the same time make certain that no negro shall vote in the Solid South.

In the Argentine, as the Fascists collapse everywhere, the government decides that this is a good time to start Fascism in South America.

In British Columbia, the businessmen confer with the businessmen of Washington and Oregon and declare that trade barriers of all sorts must be removed between Canada and the United States, and next day solemnly resolve that no Canadian ever shall ever move out of British Columbia to Washington for manufacture.

How the Eskimos are doing I have not heard, but probably they are buying electrical refrigerators at the North Pole.

To everybody but me all this makes sense in a kind of fourth dimensional fashion. You must have a modern streamlined mind, with floating power and no brakes, to live in such a world, and apparently the public has it, since no one but me and a few old relics of the past, finds our current situation in the least surprising. I suppose everything is quite all right and all under control, but I confess I am still reeling.

More Food and Better

From the London Daily Mail

Almost unnoticed in the excitement of other events, a complete change has lately taken place in the social life of Britain in wartime.

Food queues have almost entirely disappeared and where joiners still continue to form them, curiosity is the chief cause of their existence.

Everyone is being better fed, and with better variety of food, than at any other time since the early days of the war.

There is much more in the butchers' shops "free of ration." The fishmongers often have more fresh fish than they can sell. The grocers' shelves are piled with commendable commodities.

And the greengrocers, though short of fresh fruits, have vegetables and salad stuffs in abundance.

It is apparent, too, that in the provision of other commonly needed commodities, such as clothing, boots and shoes, and household furnishings, the position is steadily improving.

There is certainly not yet nearly enough of these to provide for all who really need them.

But controllers are not talking any more about further restrictions.

Their propaganda departments have changed over into low gear forward, and, albeit somewhat creepingly, as their machinery first turns that way, are promising improvements.

Another sign of the times is the considerable diminution in the activities of food racketeers, and the very welcome decision of both the Food Ministry and the Board of Trade to curtail the issue and stringency in application of various control orders.

We record this changed state of affairs because its recognition is stimulating, because it is the evidence in itself of a major war victory already won, and because we should give tribute to those who have secured it.

To realize its stimulating effect we need only cast our minds back for a comparatively few months, when the U-boat campaign was at its height and even "Give us this day our daily bread" was a constant prayer.

Wild Berry Crop Starting to Ripen

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE — The wild berry crop is starting to ripen and pickers say that strawberries are plentiful, and that there will be raspberries and blueberries in some places. Other patches were hit by a late frost and ruined. At Ricinus, 78-year-old A. Fogle, is out with the younger ones, busy picking strawberries.

Continued rains have stopped having and many farmers fear they will not be able to get enough for their stock for the winter. There is a splendid crop of hay, but it has never been dry enough to cut, and the rains of the last few days have ruined what little the farmers had cut ready to stack.

Hero of the British campaigns in Libya, Lieut.-Gen. Sir Richard Nugent O'Connor now leads Gen. Montgomery's tank formations in France. He was captured by the Germans in 1941 but escaped from an Italian prison camp last September.

with a load and was backing his truck into position to unload when the boy ran out from behind a pile of lumber right into the truck, whose hind wheels ran over his head crushing the skull.

Anderson in the truck did not even know the child was there until the other Indians came running and shouting. Constable R. A. McMullen, RCMP and Coroner Dr. A. C. Greenaway investigated and after consulting Chief Provincial Coroner Dr. E. A. Braithwaite of Edmonton and Indian Agent Henry Stelfox of Rocky, pronounced the occurrence an unavoidable accident, for which the truck driver was in no way to blame.

A number of Cree families have been camped along the railway tracks there for some time, but Frenchceter and his family had just arrived a few hours before the accident and made camp there.

Nazarene Church Ends Camp Meeting

RED DEER — The annual camp meeting of the Alberta district, of the Church of the Nazarene, closed at the Nazarene, Sunday evening, July 30, after one of the most successful sessions in recent years. The attendance was the largest for some seasons and the weather was good until the last two days.

The special speakers this year were Rev. Harold L. Volk, of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Dr. A. O. Hendricks, of Los Angeles. Mrs. W. C. Allhouse, of the Canadian Nazarene College, Red Deer, was musical director. Director of the camp was Rev. A. E. Collins, Red Deer, district superintendent, with Rev. William G. Collier, Red Deer, camp manager. The Rev. J. Fred Parker, Red Deer, was in charge of the young people's services and Miss Louise Blakelee, Detroit, directed the children's activities.

On Wednesday, July 25, which was designated as Missionary Day at the camp and special speakers were featured. They were Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Eckel, returned missionaries from Japan, and Dr. L. I. Seaman, Didsbury, who soon leaves for Africa as a medical missionary. Mr. Eckel is now district superintendent of the Rocky Mountain district of the church with headquarters at Billings, Montana.

Before the camp meeting opened the sixth annual Young People's Institute was held with an attendance of 100, from all parts of the province.

Sessions of the camp meeting were held in the spacious grounds below Michener Hill, where extensive alterations and improvements had been made this year.

It was a coincidence that although they were stationed thousands of miles apart their furloughs were granted on the same dates.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN HOUSE — Mrs. C. Brierley has received a letter from her son, Able Seaman Russell Brierley, saying that he had been all through the invasion, his ship being one of the first to land troops on French soil. He had just been on holiday in London where he met, by chance, two girls from Rocky, both in the CWAC, Sgt. Helen Husley and Sgt. Marjorie Killick.

Highway Building Is Making Progress

TWO HILLS — Construction of the Two Hills-Lavoy gravel highway has begun. Thirteen gravel trucks under the supervision of Arthur Voice have completed a two-mile stretch of road. After the project is completed the highway will stretch approximately 100 miles from Two Hills to Lavoy to Edmonton. Plans to gravel the streets of the village are being made.

Another high grade project under the supervision of the department of public works is progressing a mile north of here. Heavy highway machinery has arrived to speed up the construction. At present work on both roads has been suspended due to heavy rains.

Some damage was done to a car owned by P. Odynski when a frightened team of horses climbed over the parked automobile. The team was frightened by a moving freight train. No one was hurt.

Archbishop Theodorowich, head of the Greek Orthodox church was honored at a Sunday celebration here. After a church service, directed by the archbishop and the Rev. Mr. Chruszawa a dinner was served by the Ukrainian Ladies Association in the Crown Lumber building. A display of Ukrainian linen, needlework and woodwork was placed in the recreation hall. Afternoon speakers were Mrs. M. Ponich, president of the Ukrainian Ladies Association.

Other speakers were Mrs. A. Young, P. M. Shavchuk, F. Hanochko, N. Poohkay, P. Svarich, M. Kolyshyn and W. Mulka. Speeches of thanks were given by the archbishop and Father Chruszawa. Approximately 400 persons attended the celebration. All proceeds from the collection taken during the day will go toward building a Greek Orthodox church.

Constable Serby, RCMP, has replaced Constable McNally here. The latter has left to take a post at Hardisty. Ed Christensen of the RCMP detachment has also been transferred. Anton Schurek is back at work in the Coop store after a two-week holiday in Edmonton. Steve Petasky a clerk at the municipal district of Eagle office is also back after a short stay in Calgary. LACOMBE — Alfred T. Inskip, pioneer hotelman, has sold the Adelphi Hotel and intends to return to his native England as soon as he can get passage. Returning with him will be his sister, Miss Alice Inskip, who has assisted him in the management of the hotel for many years. Mr. Inskip came to Alberta 32 years ago and worked for some time on a ranch at Cochrane. Later he homesteaded in the Buffalo Lake district, east of here. He first started in the hotel business in Lacombe in 1898 and had operated the Adelphi Hotel almost continuously since 1906. He was the first president of the Alberta Hotelkeepers' Association.

GLENDON — The road running north past Glendon has just been graded. It is expected that the highway from St. Paul and Cold Lake will come this way. A nice job is being done of stuccoing the public schoolhouse by Joseph Mycek. The funeral of Mrs. Edward Duffy was held on Saturday afternoon, July 29 at the Glendon Pentecostal Tabernacle with Rev. W. S. Ball officiating. Pallbearers were: Alex Latta of Edmonton, W. G. Andrews of Thierin, A. A. Erickson, R. F. Keilges, L. C. Kight and John Bliss of Glendon.

Frank Burke, two former Lacombe hockey players, have given their lives while serving with the Canadian and United States armed forces, according to word which has just been received by friends here. Alex Penman, a native of the Crow's Nest Pass district, played hockey for the Lacombe Athletics while teaching school in Lacombe in 1936 and 1937. He joined the Canadian Army while residing in B.C. about two years ago and was reported as having been killed in action overseas. Burke, who played hockey in Lacombe in 1926-27-28, died while serving with the United States Navy at Camp Peary, Virginia. He left Lacombe in 1928 to play for the Portland Buckaroos in the Coast League and later played hockey in Los Angeles.

Air Power

Adequate Air Power

By Maj. A. P. de Seversky

Our War Department is studying the "mission, size and composition of the postwar air force necessary for the protection of this country." Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson disclosed some days ago. He added, sensibly, that definite decisions probably cannot be made before the end of the war. There are some phases of this all-important problem, however, on which conclusions can be drawn even before the war is ended.

Sooner or later the United States will have to work out a definition of what constitutes adequate air power. Common sense indicates that we shall require air power superior to that of any potential enemy or group of enemies. That's the maximum. But there is also a minimum, and that, at least, can be reckoned in advance. It is naturally awkward to picture any of the major nations as possible belligerents. Luckily, due to the nature of air warfare, it is not necessary. The requirements for air power can be stated in military principles, if not in concrete figures.

Airmen have said for many years what is now acknowledged officially by the War Department: that in the near future hostile air power will be able to strike directly from across oceans at the sources of America's military power anywhere within our own borders. The reverse is no less true—that we shall have to deliver "telling blows against the enemy's means of conducting war in his own home land."

COLOSSAL DUEL

War will therefore resolve itself from the first hour of conflict into a colossal duel between contending industrial giants, using air power as their striking force. Each side, while parrying blows from the other with defensive aviation, will strike at the heart of the adversary with its strategic bombing force. On both sides, the industrial set-up and the complex of other means to wage war will constitute the Number one target in the respective countries.

The size and disposition of the target in America will therefore give us the basic data from which to estimate our minimum aerial needs. We know how much TNT will be required to cripple our industrial and war-making machine. As aviation develops from year to year, our experts will always know exactly how much and what kind of enemy aviation will suffice to destroy this American target.

We know that bombers will always go through, no matter how well we are geared for defense, and the object is to make them pay so dearly that the effort becomes suicidal. Our rock-bottom needs in air power would thus appear to be a defensive force sufficient to inflict damage on invading aerial forces at a rate of attrition beyond the enemy's capacity for replacement. Beyond that we shall need a striking air force that can annihilate the enemy's means to wage war. But we will not be able to do that until we destroy the

Govt. Policies Are Criticized At Red Deer

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, Aug. 3.—George Clark, of Olds, son of the late Dr. Michael Clark, former MP for Red Deer, speaking here on Wednesday night, criticized the provincial government for its handling of the debt situation in Alberta. A large percentage of the bondholders, he said, were individuals, and the province's handling of the situation had worked a great hardship on them. In addition, he claimed, the credit of the province had been destroyed and it was impossible to operate without credit.

Mr. Clark spoke at the Elk's hall in the interests of W. J. Edgar, Independent party candidate for the Red Deer constituency.

There had been too much party politics in Alberta, he said. The people would not get away from that if they elected a Social Credit or a CCF government. Members of the Independent party had thrown party affiliations aside and had gone to work together to attend to business. They had declared themselves as willing to cooperate with any federal government which was out to do anything for the benefit of the people, he asserted.

NEED STATE MEDICINE

State medicine was one of the important things that we must have in this province, said Mr. Edgar. In order to have prosperity we must have a better system of old age pensions so that the older people could be adequately cared for and the younger ones able to have jobs.

The Social Credit government had introduced a million dollar house building scheme which the speaker felt was more or less an election promise. There was the Dominion housing scheme but the Alberta government would not cooperate, he said.

If we could have a million dollar housing scheme why couldn't we have a million dollar brush cutting scheme with big equipment to clear land so that farmers could make a better living, he asked? A farmer would be able to pay for his place sooner and could pay for the brush cutting over a term of years. Why not have a million dollar scheme to buy good stock to better establish farmers?

In the candidate's opinion the large municipal units were going to ruin this country. There were not enough men and not enough machinery available in wartime to do the job. Mr. Edgar indicated three weed inspectors now trying to cover half a million acres as compared to twenty-four inspectors under the previous set-up for the same area. Weeds were becoming a serious menace.

CRITICAL OF ROADS

Mr. Edgar charged that we had no roads and felt that lack of experience, and trying to do the job too cheap was the reason for this. The roads would have to be built permanently. He considered that if we maintained a floor price and a ceiling price we wouldn't have much to worry about in agriculture. If the farmer is prosperous so are the towns and the cities," said the speaker.

W. J. Botterill, Red Deer, acted as chairman and made a strong appeal for people to get out and vote.

U.S. Army Mission In North China

CHUNGKING, Aug. 3.—(AP)—A United States military mission is visiting the communist and other areas in northern China. A Chinese government spokesman, P. H. OTTAWA, Aug. 3.—(CP)—The Dominion bureau of statistics reported last night that storage holdings of creamery butter in nine of the principal cities of Canada at Aug. 1 totalled 33,731,558 pounds, a seasonal increase of 12,013,769 pounds over stocks of 21,717,789 pounds at July 1. Holdings at July 1, 1943, totalled 39,918,039 pounds.

The Bulletin's SPORT SHOW

by Hal Dean

WALTER JOHNSON stood the Arrows on their heads for most of last night's senior session at Renfrew and he looked decidedly impressive while registering his fourth triumph of the season. And the rest of the Dodger squad gave him excellent support, both in the field and with the wood.

Roy Sampson also travelled nicely until the enemy got to him for a quartet of blows in the fifth. Sampson's pitching hand wasn't helped any when Dave Brockie carried a hot one off to Jack Carney in the first chapter.

Brockie furnished the fielding feature of the evening with his running catch, almost off the left field boards, of Sampson's smash in the third frame. And in his first full game since returning from a month furlough, Capt. Harry Baldwin gave his batting figures a nice hoist with a fifty two for four effort, with three runs batted in.

ARROWS RATTING IT CLOSE

ARROWS are approaching rather as a precarious position insofar as a play-off spot is concerned. They are two games from the Signallers whom they play on Saturday night and they have just six left.

July was a complete flop for Ab Superstein's base-stealing aspirations. After going the distance since June 29, the Dodger centre-fielder came up with two last night and raised his total to nine. George Green and Nick Maskiwich collected four of the seven bases on balls distributed. George surely looks 'em over with a very discerning eye and Wednesday's pair lifted his bag for the year to 16.

Yanks will be forced to win tonight's game against Signallers in order to retain their hold on first place in the league standing. However they have two in hand over the Dodgers, having played 16 as compared to 18 for the Henderson crew.

Distance Racing to Feature Edmonton's 10-Day Meeting

RACING over a distance of ground will highlight the return of the thoroughbreds to Edmonton on Saturday afternoon when the 10-day fall meeting gets under way at the Exhibition grounds at 2:30. During the week twilight racing will be the order with post time for the first race 5 p.m.

Edmonton racing fans have always favored distance tests over the sprints and Presiding Steward and Racing Secretary George W. Schilling has seen to it that there are a good number of races over a mile or more.

Condition sheets for the first four days interested horsemen in that there wouldn't be a race for a purse of less than $400 and daily features call for $500 and $600 races. Not so long ago trainers and owners had to be content with purses far below that figure for the handicaps returned little more than the claiming races of today.

3 LONG RACES SATURDAY

First day's card on Saturday has three races over a mile and one-half and Albertans have always maintained that it takes a mile to make it a horse race. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday cards are also well fortified with races that bring out a thoroughbred's staying power as well as his speed.

Saturday's feature is the Alberta Handicap for a purse of $600 that should draw the best of the seasoned campaigners presently stabled at the Exhibition track. The MacDonald Hotel Handicap tops Monday's card and on Tuesday there's the Glowing Handicap and the North Star as twin features. The Old Glory Handicap on Wednesday is in honor of the many American soldiers quartered in Edmonton.

TURF NOTES

Starter Jim Donovan set up the Cowell starting gate this morning and several horses went through their schooling. . . . Edmonton fans will see one of the fastest sprinters since the days of Silent Messenger when Blue Stone goes to the post. . . . He has won five out of seven races this year. . . . Some Do is the best of the routers which go a mile and three furlongs and more. . . . Tommy Morrison has him in rare shape. . . . Pagan Star, winner of the Alberta Derby, should be a keen contender for the better class of three-year-olds races. . . . Gower Mon, winner of the rich Canadian Derby, is on the grounds but it is unlikely that he will start here as trainer Kallong is resting the son of Golden Gower up in preparation for racing at California this fall. Entries for Saturday's racing will close at 10:00 a.m. Friday morning.

Swimming Meet At S.S. Tonight

No. 4 Initial Training School is sponsoring an interservice swimming meet to be held at the South Side Pool tonight, commencing at 7:30 o'clock.

Events of the meet will include the 50, 100 and 200-yards free style competition, 70 yards back stroke, 70 yards breast stroke, 105 yards medley relay for three-man teams, 280 yards relay for four-man teams, diving and novelty event.

This meet is open to the public and there will be no admission.

Walk-Rite "A" as one of the prize upsets of the year. The odds appeared to be very much against Clare Hollingsworth's team eliminating Walk-Rites, leaders in the girls' league, but the Pats' 2-0 win last night was well-earned, with "Gen" Spargo pitching great ball.

Tonight's attraction at Kingsway Park is the first in the series for the men's northern title between HMCS Nonsuch and USSAF Officers. Al Young and Mike Milner will be the opposing chukkers. It should be good. Calgary plays the winner here this coming week-end, while the Pats will journey south to meet Calgary Chinooks.

It looks as if Calgary boys intend to make a determined bid for premier honors in the provincial inter-scholastic track and field meet scheduled for Clarke Stadium here next Monday afternoon. Fourteen crack Calgaryians make up the team, with two relay squads included.

Only six Edmonton entries for the boys' events have been received so far according to A. R. Lawrence. At least 10 are expected in the girls' division. Rosalind is sending a delegation of seven to the meet, while three are coming from Cardston and two from High Prairie, Athabasca and Smoky Lake. Additional entries already are in from Carstairs, Dewbury, Barrhead, Wetaskiwin, Lacombe, Okotoks, Fleet, Castor, Hardisty, Hill Spring, Langford Park, Redwater. Starting time is 1 p.m.

And by the way, Bob Mamini, sports editor of the Calgary Herald arrived in the city yesterday. Bob will be here for the race meet, combining a spot of pleasure with business. He'll be teaming up with Lou Davies.

Newcomer

Jockey Ralph Black is a newcomer to riding ranks in Edmonton and he is only 17 years of age. Black rode his first winner at the Agua Caliente track in Mexico on Feb. 28 of this year. Since then he has added 36 more firsts to his score, 15 of them on the western Canada circuit. Black will be one of the few apprentice riders here for Saturday's opening at the Edmonton Exhibition grounds and he can ride as light as 106 pounds.

Montgomery, Jack "Amateurs" In $50,000,000 War Bond Show

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—Pvt. Bob Montgomery and Beau Jack are making a grand gesture in the most extraordinary boxing show ever staged—at Madison Square Garden on Friday night.

For the first time in history prominent fighters are facing one another free, gratis and for nothing. It is the young patriots' contribution toward a near $50,000,000 War Bond sale. In no other sport does a combatant jeopardize his standing to such an extent—in one engagement.

The Treasury Department is paying $12,500,000, give or take a million, to stage the production, is delighted to dish out this kind of dough. Of course, there's something like an I.O.U. attached to this money. The cash won't be forthcoming for 10 years or so, but Uncle Sam is reliable. The lettuce will be there.

Ten or 12 million seems like an awful lot of cabbage to pay for a boxing contest, even one involving the best lightweights in the world, but it's perfectly all right because it represents the interest that will accumulate on War Bonds purchased by fans.

FROM $25 TO $100,000

Tickets are priced at from $25 to $100,000. There are rows at $100, $50,000, $10,000, $25,000 and $50,000 to make up a sum by far the largest ever attempted in individual bonds for a single event. The ringside will be reminiscent of the Garden's old 600 millionaires, but there is plenty of room for the E Bond boys. There are 18,500 seats and every one is reserved.

To make it a 100 per cent Bond show, the Gillette Safety Razor Co. is picking up the check, paying the incidental freight—rental, cost of the preliminaries, training expenses, etc.

Montgomery, a Philadelphia shipyard worker until he donned GI and Jack, one-time Augusta shoe shine boy, are colliding for the fourth time in a 10-round match. Contracts were signed at 140 pounds, so Montgomery's title is not at stake. Montgomery expects to weigh 137, one pound less than Jack.

JACK OUT TO EVEN SCORE

All their fights have been at the Garden, where Jack the ring's last Golden Boy, has drawn more money than any other fighter. Montgomery acquired the championship by giving Jack a boxing lesson in 15 rounds before a $94,500 gate, May 21, 1943. Jack regained it by maintaining a furious pace for 15 rounds before a turnout that paid $96,873. Nov. 19, 1943. The mob dug up $111,954 to see Montgomery strike back last March 3 by taking the play away from Jack and winning a split decision that was hardly debatable.

Montgomery has more boxing talent and is the harder hitter with the right hand because he occasionally grips the canvas with his toes. Jack is a willing, winging, swarm-all-over-you slugger.

Though they have been professionals for several years, for this one fight Montgomery and Beau Jack again become amateurs in everything but ability.

At no time have the honest Negro youths failed the boxing game that has done so much for them, and when the Treasury Department called they stood up like the champions they are.

Archie Stewart of the Edmonton Club and Ewan Munro of the Royal Club will be the Edmonton representatives in the Goodyear Singles, provincial championship play-offs with other district winners in the annual lawn bowling tournament.

Some of the other entries in the province include Jack W. Wright, Medicine Hat; George Jones, Lethbridge; Percy Timms, Calgary.

A strong hand—tickets for the real Battle of the Century at $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000, $50,000 and $100,000.

Winnipeg Still Has Hopes

Toronto Turns Down Offer For School Rugby Playoff

WINNIPEG, Aug. 3.—(CP)—Robert Jarman, director of athletics in Winnipeg public schools, said Wednesday the Toronto Board of Education had turned down an offer to have a Toronto high school team play a Winnipeg aggregation in an east-west football final in Winnipeg this fall.

Mr. Jarman, commenting on a Toronto dispatch which quoted Jim Coleman, columnist of the Globe and Mail, as saying the final "was kayosed by the Toronto Board of Education," said Toronto officials had argued that playing such a game would interfere with the team's studies.

"Right now we are negotiating with school officials in several other eastern Canada cities for the purpose of staging such a contest," he said.

"Montreal appears to be quite willing to participate but as yet no arrangements have been made." He said it would be necessary to play the final before Nov. 11.

A. E. (Bert) Longstaffe, president of the Winnipeg Rugby Club which recently said it was willing to finance an east-west scholastic grid final, said "if Toronto is unwilling to play, we'll try and get some other eastern city."

Mr. Longstaffe said that regardless of what eastern city is willing to meet the Winnipeggers, the club's offer of financial assistance still stands.

Mervyn Dutton To Again Direct National League

TORONTO, Aug. 3.—(CP)—Mervyn (Red) Dutton will direct the affairs of the National Hockey League again next season, it was stated last night by E. W. Bickle, a member of the N.H.L. board of governors.

Mr. Bickle said he has received a telegram from Dutton, who was the league's managing director last season, saying he will be in Toronto in mid-August for a meeting of the rules committee and will be ready to take up his duties again.

Dutton, who now is in western Canada in connection with his contracting business, has directed the league's affairs since the death of Frank Calder in February, 1943.

Victors Now Meet Calgary Alberta Final

By DON KILLIPS

ARMY AND NAVY PATS are the new northern Alberta senior girls' fastball champions. They staved off a bitter threat by Walk-Rite "A" in the last inning at Kingsway Park Wednesday night and registered a 2-0 victory in the deciding game of the best of three finals.

Pats were leading with two out in the ninth frame on two runs scored in the fourth and eighth innings, and appeared to have the game in the bag when Walk-Rites filled the sacks on two singles, a walk, and an error, to threaten seriously for the first time.

The new title holders managed to put Betty Carveth out when she grounded to third, however, and retired the side to cap the honors. Both clubs received outstanding pitching, Carveth turning in a five-hitter against the winners and "Gen" Spargo, a replacement, chucking four-hit ball in shutting out the more experienced fastballers.

Up to the fourth inning, Carveth hadn't allowed a single safety and Spargo had only been charged with one. But Thora Stewart doubled in that session to end the Walk-Rite hurlers' perfect pitching.

SCORES ON SACRIFICE

Stewart advanced to third on an error when the ball was thrown by the left fielder, and then scored what proved to be the winning run when Mary Verena sacrificed, second base to first.

The Pats threatened in the fifth, but it wasn't until the eighth when they pushed across their other run. Theresa Lafleur, outstanding Pat catcher, banged out a sharp single to right field, moved around to centre on Mary Mercer's safety to centre field and then scored on a wild pitch.

A change in the infield by Manager Clare Hollingsworth that put Thora Stewart at short, made a notable improvement in the Pats' defensive play. They played one of their best games of the season and were worthy of their win over last season's provincial champs.

Stewart handled nine chances, making five putouts and assisting in four others, and had a flawless night at her new position. She also helped in one of two smart double plays registered by the winners.

FIRST DOUBLE PLAY

The first twin out came in the second inning. Jean Beatty was on first with one out and Isabel Whitley grounded down to third. Third sacker Nadine Hatch heaved to first to put out Whitley and then Mary Mercer returned the throw to catch Beatty, who attempted to make third on the play, and retire the side.

The other came in the seventh, but it was only the smart and fast work of second sacker Ruth Brault that made it click. Betty Carveth was on first with one away when Frances Zavitz grounded to short. Stewart tossed the ball to second to force Carveth and Brault, who caught the pill with her throwing hand, relayed to first to catch Zavitz.

The Pats now journey to Calgary over the week-end to play the Chinooks in the opening game of a best of three series for the provincial championship. The deciding contests will be played here the following week-end.

This year is the first time the Pats have reached the Alberta finals since 1941 when they became provincial title-holders. Murray Walidman, Walk-Rites' av, held the honors for the province the last two seasons.

Yank Margin Reduced

Dodgers Blank Arrows 9-0 As Johnson Pitches 3-Hitter

By HAL DEAN

WALTER JOHNSON set the Arrows down with three hits all singletons—in Wednesday night's Senior Baseball League affair at Renfrew Park and the Dodgers loped to a 9-0 shutout. The win cut the Yanks' margin over the Chuck Henderson squad to less than half a game.

In marking up his fourth victory against two defeats, Johnson turned in one of the smartest pitching efforts of the season. Only Bob Reed and Ed. Gauß reached third during the entire session, while Nick Maskiwich twice got as far as the middle station.

In six of the nine frames just three Lupulites were accorded batting privileges. The Arrows did fill the bases in the first and third innings and they got another man half-way around in the second heat. Otherwise for them it was a very bleak evening.

Bob Reed alone had success in dealing with Mr. Johnson. The Arrow third-sacker hit the first ball pitched during the game into centre field for a clean single and he got down to first in a hurry next time up to beat Tommy Brant's rifle throw from third.

Jack Carney, making his maiden appearance at Renfrew since the 1941 season, picked up the other hit for his club—a sharp single past short.

ROY SAMPSON STARTED

Roy Sampson started for Arrows and got by nicely for two innings. An error and a walk did allow Brockie and Superstein to reach first base and each stole second, but remained there.

Dodgers gathered in their initial run in the third chapter. After Johnson had fled out to Lupul, George Green coaxed a walk and Doug Stevenson's double sent him to third, from where he scored on Brockie's long fly to left field.

Four hits and a pair of errors with one down in the fifth gave the Dodgers three more counters. Johnson started the trouble for Sampson with a booming triple to deep left-centre. Green came through right on schedule with a single through the pitcher's box to bring in Johnson.

TWO MORE RUNS

Stevenson hit to left and Green advanced from second to third on the throw following Brockie's drive to Len Haines in centre. A talk called by Umpire John Ducey permitted Green to trot home and Stevenson to advance. The Dodger catcher-shortstop then stole third and came in when Ken Samis' throw was bad.

Johnny Johnson took over the pitching burden from Sampson in the sixth and walked Brant and Green. Brockie got a scratch hit along the third base line to clutter up the paths and when Baldwin also was awarded a free ticket to first, Brant came home.

Cliff Robinson got a life on Carney's error to start off the seventh and he went to third on Ab Super-stein's single, scoring when Brant lifted a long fly to Lupul.

Walter Johnson's second hit, one by Green, an error at second and Harry Baldwin's single gave the Dodgers their last three runs in the seventh.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALLAN NICKLESON

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(CP)—A free nomination for the 1946 season to Nearsco, unbeaten as a racer and famed as a sire has been given by big-time bookmaker, Martin Benson, and will be auctioned on behalf of the Veterinary Educational Trust.

Nearsco, only piece of bloodstock in Britain to have had a private air raid shelter was purchased by Benson for $270,000 a couple of years ago. Later he sold the colt to a syndicate of breeders, including himself, at a profit of $8,000.

Nominations to Nearsco are practically unobtainable by breeders who don't belong to the syndicate. Among others he sired the Aga Khan's Nasrullah, winner of the Champion Stakes and third in the Derby last year.

Other owners have given free nominations for 1945 on behalf of the Trust. Sires whose services will be donated include Big Game, property of the National Stud who won Two Thousand Guineas for the King last year; Trigo, previous winner of the Derby and St. Leger, and Feildand, winner of the Derby.

The nominations will be auctioned by Tattersalls at the Newmarket Autumn Bloodstock Sales. Bidding is expected to be heavy.

Pamphilos, a three-year-old that once changed hands for $270, virtually won the Northern England sprint championship with a brilliant victory at top weight in the July Handicap at Pontefract. The colt will challenge for the All-Britain sprint title at Newmarket this fall.

Pamphilos scored a two-length victory over the older Remuneration, to whom he was conceding nearly 28 pounds in weight. A field of 23 contested the five furlongs which the winner, owned by A. J. Purser, a London business man, stepped in 1:4 1-5. Pamphilos originally was purchased by an Irish dealer for $270. He sold him to Purser for double that amount.

International scale soccer matches may soon be staged in France as entertainment for the Allied armies. Military officials have under consideration a plan to send star-packed army and air force teams to participate in a series of exhibition affairs.

Between them, the two services can call on almost all the leading international players of England, Scotland and Wales.

Followers in Canada of football in Britain will learn with regret of the death of Frank Carruthers, who for 17 years was a special writer on association football for the London Daily Mail. His articles were widely read.

Doug Bentley Not Likely to Receive Crossing Permit

REGINA, Aug. 3.—(CP)—The department of labor mobilization board for Saskatchewan will give no border crossings permission this year to men of callable category wishing to play hockey in the United States, said Mr. Justice P. M. Anderson, chairman of the board Wednesday.

Judge Anderson's comment was given in reply to a query as to whether Doug Bentley, of Delisle, Sask., had been granted an extension of his agricultural deferment and would be given permission to play hockey for Chicago during the coming winter.

Of callable category, Bentley, star left winger with Chicago Black Hawks, was given a border crossing permit last winter in line with selective services policy approved at Ottawa, at present he is farming 320 acres at Delisle.

By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(BUP)—Up comes the Army with one of the finest sports suggestions since Pearl Harbor—a service world series involving the Navy, Marines and Army for War Bond sales.

The suggested series would bring into competition a trio of baseball teams that are regarded as tops in the services: Great Lakes, Ill. (Navy), Parris Island, S.C. (Marines), and 20th Armored Division, Camp Campbell, Ky. (Army).

The public relations office at Camp Campbell informs that this suggestion was made editorially in Monday's issue of the "Armored News", unofficial organ of the Army's armored forces and one of the most widely read of all service publications.

Such a series would interest service men all over the world, as well as civilian fans, the editorial emphasizes; and it should provide millions of dollars for Uncle Sam through the sale of war bonds. "How about the war department getting these three star teams together in a series?" The Armored News asks.

PROPOSED SCHEDULE
According to the proposed schedule, the "Armoreders" of Camp Campbell would tangle with the Parris Island Marines in a five-game series, with the winner to meet Lt. Cmdr. Mickey Cochran's Great Lakes Navy squad in a five-game series for the service world championship.

Armored News picked the Camp Campbell Armoreders as the strongest team to represent Army because of its excellent record of 41 victories in 44 games this season. Earlier in the campaign, it had a 35-game winning streak. Concerning the other two service teams, the editorial says:

"The Navy has a team it can be proud of. The 17th major league team in the nation, Mickey Cochran's Great Lakes nine has a roster of major league stars that any big league manager would be happy to own."

"The Marines aren't any push-over, either. Parris Island, the Marines boot training centre, has a nine that features the pitching of colorful Boots Poffenberger and boasts a winning streak of 23 the last time we heard of it."

NO OBJECTIONS?
Neither the Armoreders nor the Parris Island Marines, we are certain, would object if Great Lakes were chosen as the best of the three for the purposes of running the series."

Though no dates are proposed, the editorial points out that the

Scoring Knockout Over Loughran Thrilled Sharkey

By JACK SHARKEY

Former Heavyweight Champion KNOCKING OUT Tommy Loughran in the third round in Yankee Stadium, Sept. 26, 1929, is one fight I'll never forget.

To my pleasant surprise, I was able to outbox the Phantom, as the boxing writers dubbed the Philadelphian. I had so little trouble landing and getting away that at first I suspected he was stalling to make me careless.

In the third round, however, Jack Sharkey I knew I was the boss as a boxer and hitter, so cut loose. A fusillade of punches ending with one on the temple put Loughran on Queer Street. He turned to the ropes, walked along one side of the ring, and said, dreamily, if not in correct English: "Where am I? I'm tired. I want to sit down." The referee stopped the fight.

It was the first time Tommy Loughran had ever been knocked out.

Asks Sweeping Mandate Premier Reminds Electors Alternative to Socialism Is Offered by Government

Rather than endorsing state socialism, results of voting in recent provincial election campaigns in Canada have expressed rejection of political orthodoxy of the past, Premier Ernest Manning told an audience of 100 persons at the 95 street I.O.O.F. Hall Wednesday night.

Wounded

Rifleman Harold Conlin, son of Mrs. J. Orr, 9537 110A Avenue, who has been reported wounded in France on July 8, according to word received here by his mother. He was born here and went to the Queen's Avenue and Alex Taylor public schools. He joined up with the Regina Rifles, in August, 1943, taking his training at Camrose and Calgary. He went overseas in April of this year. A brother LAC Alvin Conlin is with the RCAF in Eastern Canada.

CCF Member Of Ont. House Speaks in City

Entrenched interests are permitted to continue, Canada will be in a sorry plight, Garfield Anderson, CCF, MLA from Ontario and former mayor of Fort William, declared at a CCF meeting attended by 23 persons in the Sons of England hall on 118 Avenue and 85 Street, Wednesday evening.

The working people must organize if they are to have a fair share in industry. The farmers must be organized the same as labor or continue to be exploited, the speaker declared. The time of the single tools has ceased and these must be cast aside and in their place must be co-operative interests.

NEED PUBLIC CONTROL

The monopolistic companies must come under public control, he stated. The important legislation needed to keep away a man-made depression as was experienced after the last war will be carried out by the CCF party.

Mr. Anderson told of the prosperous times in Fort William due to the war plants there making bombers. He spoke of the successful municipal ownership of the street railway and telephone company and of the advantages of the collective ownership of the bulk of the hydro power in Ontario. The public ownership of this utility has made low power rates in the province, he said.

He declared co-operatives can bring monopolies to time, and urged the people to organize and volunteer assistance in this campaign and the election of August 8. He said they can help financially and by education, even by talking to two and three persons of what CCF stands for.

ANSWERS CRITICISM

The speaker commented on the criticism made by the Social Credit party of the CCF, bringing in outside speakers to take part in the election campaign. Mr. Anderson said he considered it his duty to take part in the campaign because many Albertans are working in Fort William.

Mr. Anderson has been active in the forming of labor unions and declared that "we can thank Hitler for the war which brought about the unions."

Whether the natural resources of Alberta, the oil, gas and timber

In other Canadian provinces, the state socialism of the CCF party is the only alternative to the old order that electors are offered, the premier declared.

"But it's different in Alberta," he said. "The people of Alberta have a better alternative than the state socialists have ever offered or ever will offer. Next Tuesday Alberta voters can show Canada that better alternative to the old order than state socialism."

REITERATES WARNING

Mr. Manning reiterated his warning that result of Alberta's election next week will decide the course of Canada's future for the next 25 years. He called on voters to return the Social Credit government with a larger majority than in the last legislature, so there will be no doubt that the people of the province want the Social Credit crusade carried on to the finish.

Speaking at his 30th campaign meeting since July 8, Mr. Manning appeared at Wednesday's meeting in company with Orvis A. Kennedy, Harry D. Carrigan, N. B. James and John Gillies, his running mates on the Social Credit party slate in Edmonton city.

A second simultaneous meeting was held in Cloverdale community hall, candidates alternating between the two gatherings.

NOTES 1935 ENTHUSIASM

Speaking of his trip through the province from Medicine Hat to the Peace River country, Mr. Manning said everywhere there was a revival of the spirit and enthusiasm of the 1935 election campaign. This was an indication of Albertans to see the job through, he declared.

"If ever there was a time when young people should have a voice in the country's affairs, that time is now," said the premier. He added that Alberta has led the British Empire in lowering voting age of its residents to 19 years. This was done because the Social Credit government felt if a soldier was old enough to lay down his life for his country, he is old enough to have a voice in the conduct of its affairs.

Mr. Manning told of "many voices" now being heard in the country. "When we hear these strange voices, we should know who is talking, what is being said, and if it is 'for or against'."

One Communique

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, AUG. 3.—(AP)—Effective Thursday, headquarters will issue only one communique on daily operations in Normandy, at 3 a.m. CDT. Headquarters heretofore also issued a night communique at 3:30 p.m. CDT.

shall belong to the province or not is one of the main issues in this campaign, declared Clifford E. Lee, CCF candidate.

The CCF can bring in legislation which will bring control of the resources to the province, he said. The electric light, street railway and waterworks are now publicly owned he said, but the Social Credit has not gone any farther in public ownership. Social Credit has got itself on the side of the big shots and of the press and need not go any farther in reforms, he said.

The health and education of the people must come first and this is the CCF policy, declared William Irvine, CCF candidate. Forty-two per cent of the young people of Canada did not measure up to army requirements in health and only three per cent are able to go to the universities, the speaker said. To have a democracy in action education must be of first importance.

"WAR CAUSED CCF"

The CCF is a child of its own age, born out of the deepest needs of human desires he said. The war has caused the CCF.

New Zealand has socialism on a large scale, Russia has it on a larger scale. This will be our chance to have socialism by voting, after this we will have to fight for it, the speaker declared.

Joseph Cherrington was chairman.

Says Scientific Plans Required For New Cities

Cities of the future must be planned on a real community basis with rural factors also considered and with land property values removed entirely from a speculative basis, John S. Galbraith, head of the community planning division of National Housing Administration, a new federal department, told members of the Edmonton town planning commission Wednesday.

Mr. Galbraith, who is on a tour of Canadian cities, gathering material for a report to the national housing committee of parliament, gave a highly interesting talk on the vital subject of housing, stating new and intriguing possibilities from the standpoint of scientific city planning.

MAYOR PRESENT

His Worship Mayor John W. Fry and several members of the city council attended the meeting which was presided over by H. Milton Martin chairman of the town planning commission.

Scientific planning must take into consideration the meaning of housing in its widest sense, Mr. Galbraith said. Housing means industrial housing as well as residential housing, with business, industry and residential districts of a city all in proper relationship to each other.

In the past much haphazard development took place for which citizens of the present pay a high price. Transportation systems were built which actually make whole districts subservient to these systems, Mr. Galbraith declared.

"In my opinion it is wrong to have land values on a speculative basis instead of on a basis of investment. This is the greatest single cause of rot at the centre of many of the large Canadian and American cities," Mr. Galbraith stated.

He advocated the tearing down of slum areas where artificial land values have prevented new building and have the areas replaced by community centre parks.

"PAYING PROPOSITION"

He termed such parks close to business areas a "paying proposition" as there is not a large upkeep cost, contrary to a wholly fallacious public notion.

The community planning department should not be an auxiliary department of any city.

"The man in charge of community planning should sit at the right hand of the mayor and all classes and interests in the community should have representation in the project so that true co-operation and enthusiasm may be developed," the speaker said.

There are two things that the people of any city want. They want to be within 30 minutes of their places of business or work and have fresh air and sunlight for their families. In many cities they are moving further out to get these things and business has had to follow them. As a result a "condition of rot" is developing at the centres of the cities, Mr. Galbraith said. This was the result of a policy of putting the cart before the horse.

LONG-TERM PLANS

There must be overall, long-term planning of the entire city and region, he said.

The dominion government has announced it will make $275,000,000 available for city planning and housing after the war, the speaker observed.

"People of the west, and of Edmonton in particular, are plan conscious and Edmonton is fortunate as compared to many larger cities but is nevertheless entering a 'dangerous phase' unless careful planning is undertaken," he concluded.

Service Bureau Aids Stamp Drive

The Junior Service Bureau, War Savings Stamp Drive, under the direction of Miss Francis Stanley, commenced Monday. About 300 young enthusiasts were on the job and with the support of Edmonton citizens, expect to establish an all-time record before the week's campaign is completed.

During the week, every home and place of business will be called upon. The Junior Service Bureau is making an appeal to every citizen to assist.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce is directing the bureau in this campaign.

King Sees Damage In Cassino Area

CASSINO, Italy, Aug. 2.—(AP)—King George climaxed a fast-moving eight-day tour of Italy by driving without pause through the scene of complete devastation which marks this famous battleground. Gen. Alexander, Allied commander in Italy, who has been the King's constant companion during the trip, overruled the monarch's desire for a close inspection Tuesday of what probably will stand as the most shattered town in this war. An advance party removed 12 German mines from a small area where it had been planned that the King would stand to view the battleground.

Civil Service Act Changes Are Studied

OTTAWA, Aug. 3.—(CP)—The extension of provisions of the Civil Service Superannuation Act to cover certain classes of employees not now covered is the object of amendments to the act now being studied by the senate.

The amendments would give more than 3,500 civil servants, who declined to come under the provisions of the act when it was first passed, one year in which they may take up an option to come under the act. These civil servants also will be given a year in which they may decide whether they want to pay contributions to cover years during which they were not covered by the act.

The amendments would become effective Aug. 15.

The bill based on the amendments would allow the governor-in-council to take care of the cases of employees classed as temporaries after a number of years service.

It also would allow the servants to collect their superannuation contributions when they leave the government service. At present they cannot obtain the contributions unless they have been in the service for 10 years.

The bill would repeal a provision in the present act which permitted the confiscation of contributions when an employee was dismissed for misconduct.

500 Go on Strike In Union Dispute At Windsor Plant

WINDSOR, Ont., Aug. 3.—(CP)—All but one department in the plant of the Dominion Forge and Stamping Company were idle last night in a strike involving members of local 195 of the United Automobile Workers of America (U.A.W.).

An estimated 500 men are participating in the strike, attributed by a spokesman to the company's opposition to an Ontario Regional War Labor Board plan for unimpeding a dispute over a contract clause.

Last night Alex Parent, president of local 195, sent a telegram to Labor Minister Mitchell asking "immediate assistance" in settling the work stoppage.

U.S., Alberta Farmers Plan "Swap" of Help

Possibility of an Alberta-Montana "lend-lease" plan between combine operators and farmers of the two boundary areas was seen in Edmonton Thursday, after receipt of requests from Southern Alberta for copies of regulations covering movement of combines and crews from Alberta to the U.S. and the reverse, during harvest season.

The move to allow farmers on each side of the border to help each other in harvesting was instituted by the Alberta Dominion provincial farm labor committee, of which O. S. Longman, deputy minister of agriculture, is chairman, and R. M. Putnam, extension director, department of agriculture, is secretary.

Since regulations were made, at least six operators of combines in the south have asked for details of the plan. Canadian units going to the U.S. must return to this country by Sept. 15. American units coming to Canada are allowed to stay in the country until Dec. 31.

Crews of a single combine unit are limited to seven men, who if they are subject to regulations of the War Mobilization Board, must obtain written permission of the board before crossing the border. Agricultural workers are not allowed to go to the U.S. unless they are members of a harvesting unit crew.

GET U.S. MONEY

District agriculturists have been given authority to issue permits to units going to the U.S. Crew members given permits may obtain $25 in U.S. currency for personal expenses, while combine owners pro-

Official Planning To Visit Northland

On his way north to attend the fifth anniversary celebration of the establishment of the Sudetenland settlement in the Peace Coulee area, T. O. F. Herzer, general manager of Canada Colonization Association, a CPR subsidiary, was an Edmonton visitor Thursday.

The celebration will be held at Tupper Creek, B.C., on Sunday, Aug. 6.

The Sudetenlanders, who fled from the Nazi terror in 1939 have now been two years completely on their own, Mr. Herzer said.

There are about 100 families in the settlement.

O. B. Webster, vice-president and managing director of Abasand Oils Ltd., has just returned to Edmonton from a trip to the company's properties at Fort McMurray and to the Yellowknife district. He is at the Macdonald hotel.

Signal When You Are Turning

The road to safety is consideration for the other fellow... both motorists and pedestrians. It takes no great effort to put out your hand and let others know where you are going. Try it sometime... it's better driving.

ROAD REPORTS

The roads in the Peace River area are all good. Heavy rains for the past twelve hours at Lloydminster and Calgary. The area around Onoway and Hanna are reported to be cloudy. Lloydminster and Red Deer, the roads are muddy. The roads are rough at the following: Lac La Biche, Stettler, Wainwright, Onoway, Coronation, and Camrose.

Attend Shows Despite Rain Robot Bombs

Despite showers of robot bombs and the blizz, British theatres have been well patronized all through the war and Hitler's latest terror weapon has failed to halt operations of theatres even in London, John Davis, managing director of Odeon Theatres Ltd. of Great Britain, an Edmonton visitor Thursday, told newspapermen, who interviewed him at the Macdonald hotel.

Mr. Davis, who heads an organization of 320 theatres in the British Isles, is touring Canada for the dual purpose of increasing distribution of British films and exploring the possibilities of actual film production in Canada in the post-war period.

Mr. Davis' present visit has to do entirely with his association with Arthur Rank, prominent British film producer, and has nothing to do with his chain of theatres in Britain. Canadian Odeon theatres have no connection whatsoever with the British theatres of that name, he said.

SURVEYS SITUATION
 Mr. Davis said he is examining the possibilities of Canada for the production of British films but it is too early to state anything definite about what may come of this.

British film production is going ahead at a good pace although the war has naturally interfered with overseas distribution to a certain extent.

About 15 first rate films will be released for distribution by British firms this fall, he said.

Canadians are highly thought of in England and the people are feeling their loss since the troops have crossed to France the visitor said.

This is the first time Mr. Davis has visited Canada and he thinks the country is "wonderful" with the hospitality of the Canadian people truly amazing.

He is proceeding to the Pacific coast Friday and will tour the U.S.A. before returning to England.

Enlists Cadets

Fit-Lt. Cyril Cormick, commanding officer of the Air Cadets at Edmonton announced Thursday that air force headquarters at Ottawa has authorized the enlistment of Air Cadets in the RCAF. Cadets must be eighteen and a half years old or over, and must have at least 12 months service with an air cadet squadron, prior to July 1, 1944. Cadets may enlist in aircrew as airgunners or wireless airgunners, making application to the commanding officer or to the adjutant, Fit-Lt. C. W. F. Richardson.

Extensive Damage Caused by Flood

A sample survey, conducted on 20 farms in the Pembina River valley near Sanguo shows flood losses ranging from $600 to $1,900.

A report was made Wednesday to the Alberta Livestock Co-operative, which is sponsoring the Flood Victims Campaign Fund by A. Oppenheimer, secretary-manager of the shipping association at Rochford Bridge.

Aim of the campaign is to collect $50,000. Much more is needed and subscriptions may be sent to the Co-op Centre, in the old fire hall, 98 street, Edmonton. Farmers who would share with those who have lost livestock, crops and even home effects are asked to donate a market animal to the fund through their shipper.

The Variety Players of Edmonton will present a concert and dance at the Central Community hall at Gwynne on Friday at 8:45 p.m. in aid of the air raid victims. Residents of neighboring districts are invited to attend.

Northerner Prepares Information About Proposed Traffic Arteries

Air Ace

An ardent booster for the development of Northern Canada, Page Rideout of Peace River, a resident of the north for the last 30 years, has a file of articles and maps showing the riches of the Northwest Territories and proposals for transportation routes to open up the country.

Aerial, land and water route maps in Mr. Rideout's opinion, all indicate the accessibility of the rich territories in Northern Canada and Alaska to major countries of the world, and he feels that the resources of the area warrant the building of such routes.

His file contains data on the Alaska Highway and Canol projects, Alaska Railway, Yukon-Whitepass railway and water route, the Yukon-Alaska route, and McKenzie and Arctic Routes.

Pamphlets on the agricultural achievements of farmers in far north districts are included in Mr. Rideout's file, together with data on the University of Alaska at Fairbanks, and he points to the increasingly successful development of the United States territory.

In his opinion a closer relationship between Alaska and the vast stretches of the Canadian North, from Yukon to Hudson Bay would be advantageous.

According to Mr. Rideout the contents of his file show a great opening for the development of a country in what "appears to us to be no-man's-land."

Farmers Watching Price Legislation

While floor price legislation for farm produce is approved in principle by the Alberta Farmers' Union, the organization in a statement Thursday calls for a state price structure to approximate parity prices, withholding final approval of the plan until complete details are announced.

"The floor price will need to be an approximate parity otherwise we cannot agree to it," the statement said. "Any quota which may be established must be large enough to enable farmers to have sufficient income to pay expenses. Both these factors must be included in order to establish satisfactory floor prices."

The Pembina flood relief fund established by the AFU has reached a total of $1,515, according to officials. Latest donation, for $200, was forwarded as proceeds of a picnic held at Shandro on July 26. The picnic was sponsored by Willington, Shandro, Sunland, Desjarlais and Wasele locals, under direction of N. S. Shandro and P. Dushensky.

P.O. Walter G. Kirkwood, RCAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Kirkwood of 10747 104 street, who has been mentioned frequently in news dispatches from overseas for his hard-hitting actions against the Germans. He was born at Vegreville, Dec. 6, 1922. He attended school at Vegreville and at Bonnyville for nine years. He enlisted here in October of 1940 and trained at No. 3 "M" Depot and No. 4 ITS. Later he went to Calgary, Virden, Man., and was graduated at Saskatoon as a sergeant-pilot. Then he received promotions that brought him to his present rank.

1,000 Names Added To City Voters' List

Approximately 1,000 revisions were made in Edmonton city voters' list at revision proceedings up to Wednesday evening, H. H. Crawford, city returning officer, announced Thursday morning.

Qualified voters still may have their names placed on the voters' list by applying at election headquarters, 9832 Jasper avenue, Friday or Saturday up until 4 p.m.

It is requested by Mr. Crawford that those applying for inclusion in the revised list come on the mornings of the two days mentioned, in order to avoid conflict with advance voting which takes place in the afternoon and evenings at the same address, starting Thursday. Advance polls are open from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m.

With 1,000 changes in the voters' list on hand to date, most of them additions, it is expected the revised voters' list will easily top the 63,000 figure by the time revisions close Saturday afternoon.

Former Resident Killed in Action

Cpl. L. L. Gritter, a former resident of Edmonton and the Peace River district, has been reported killed in action with the Canadian Army in Normandy, according to word received here. He was 35 years old.

Enlisting in the Army in September, 1940, Cpl. Gritter trained for several months in Canada, and went overseas in July, 1941. He was among the first Canadians to land in France.

Surviving are his wife and a small son, who live at 10211 106 street.

The Inquiring Reporter

Do you think the closing of the RCAF schools here, has made any great decrease in business?

THE ANSWERS
 STEVE BRUCE, tobacconist: I find that my business has fallen off to some extent, but it is not so very noticeable. At one time I thought all my trade depended on the air-force boys but there seems just about the same number of people coming in to the shop as there was two years ago.

W. B. PARSONS, salesman: I find that some of the confectionery stores and stores that handle tobacco and such things notice quite a drop in their business, that is compared to what they have been doing in the last few years. This is not all because the airforce boys have left but also because many Americans have left. The dry goods stores have not been greatly affected.

SADIE TCHOWSCHUK, waitress: Business is not as brisk as it has been but I would not credit all of this to the airforce boys leaving, however it is very much heavier than it was four years ago. Later we may think that the closing of these schools made a great deal of difference, but I don't notice it very much yet.

DOROTHY DIX SAYS—

Good Dispositions Help Pair Through Wedlock

Some Men Are Natural Husbands and Do Not Upset Apple Cart on Road of Matrimony; Seem Born Housebroken

Undoubtedly there are men who have a talent for matrimony, just as there are men who have a talent for singing, or playing bridge, or making money. It is not that they are especially handsome, or intelligent, or Clark Gableish, or even that they are particularly diplomatic and skillful in handling women. They just seem born housebroken and knowing how to work in double harness without upsetting the apple cart.

Now while it is true that no one knows exactly just what qualities it takes to make a man a desirable husband, a great light has been thrown on the subject by a recent happening in which two women discovered that they were simultaneously married to the same man.

The women, neither of whom dreamed of the existence of the other, met for the first time at their mutual husband's funeral and, strangely enough, instead of upbraiding his memory for his deception, they both bore testimony to what a good husband he had been.

"No one," said Wife No. 1, who had been married to the deceased bigamist for 31 years, "could have wished for a better husband. He was always so kind and gentle and attentive and cheerful and good-natured."

"Our marriage was such a happy one," testified Wife No. 2, whose marriage had lasted 18 years; "he was so pleasant to live with."

Now this man was just a plain, ordinary, run-of-the-mill sort of a chap who had no way of gilding marriage for his wives. He supplied them with no fine houses, or gay life. He gave them no limousines or mink coats. He was no Glamour Boy himself. But just because he was easy to get along with they contentedly cooked and washed and scrubbed for him and pinched pennies, and forgave him for the deception he had practiced upon them.

And after all has been said, isn't this the real answer to what is a good husband, and how to be happy though married? Especially for women. Deep down under all the romance and the ambitions

THESE WOMEN!

"Did you have to bring your co-pilot?"

and the craving for luxuries, even down under love itself, isn't the one thing that a wife wants in a husband more than anything else, is for him to be pleasant to live with?

It isn't a husband's virtues that make or mar a wife's happiness. It is his disposition. He may be as moral as all the Ten Commandments, but if he is grouchy around the house and she goes in fear and trembling of doing or saying something that will send him into a spell of the sulks, she will envy every woman who is married to a cheerful sinner.

A man may hang his wife with jewels, but if he never speaks to her except to say something sarcastic that cuts like a knife, her matched pearls will not ease the pain in her heart. If he never does anything to make the home bright and cheerful, she has less than the poorest woman whose husband pals up with her. So perhaps what a woman wants in a husband is just a good disposition.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Bad habits creep up so insidiously. A child holds his blanket in his hand as he falls asleep; willy nilly, hot or cold weather, he has to have that blanket. He always has his milk warmed; finally, no matter how inconvenient, milk must be warmed or he spurns it.

Children who cultivate such inflexible habits have lacked change. Whenever the mother discovers that a child is becoming attached to some act concerned with such repeated ceremonies as eating, sleeping, dressing, she is sensible right then to ring in change.

If she has failed to do this, change of some kind still is the answer to loosening the bonds of the habit. One small boy, addicted to sucking on a clean rag, lost the habit when he went away for a week's trip and no rag was provided. He got used to going to sleep without it and no longer depended on it when his feelings were hurt. He asked for the rag, but he could see there was none and by the time he got home the habit was broken.

Not all can do this, but one can make changes right in one's own home. If the habit has to do with bedtime, it may help to change the position of the bed. The associations with a bed facing in one direction are broken when it faces another. It seems as if it were a strange bed.

If it is a bedtime soother that has become a habit, changing the soother may work the trick. One may substitute for a bottle, a Teddy Bear, for the bear's small doll, for the doll a handkerchief and so on until the attachment has been so weakened that nothing need be given at bedtime to distract and relax the child and help to woe sleep.

Habits connected with going to toilet may be weakened by changing the type of nursery chair, or moving it to another room, or staying with the child or leaving him alone, taking off clothes, etc., all kinds of innovations on the usual situation.

Bad habits allied to the table may be weakened by putting the child used to a high chair into a low chair, putting him at a small table by himself, moving him from dining room to kitchen or his own room, having company of his own age in to eat with him, all calculated to disturb the habits which have grown up around an unchanged dining order.

All of these efforts—and the mother will be able to think of others—are directed at changing the environmental influences which are so firmly tied to the one habit. It is never easy to undo a habit drastically but one may weaken its hold on the child by some pleasant change.

JOHN CABOT WAS NOT AN ENGLISHMAN NOR NAMED CABOT

One of the famous names connected with the early discoveries and opening of North America is that of John Cabot. This man was not an Englishman at all; neither was his name Cabot. He was an Italian, born in Genoa (the same place Columbus was born) and later lived in Venice. His real name was Giovanni Caboto. In 1490 he went to England and took up abode in Bristol. He changed his name to Cabot and took the Christian name John. He sailed to North America reaching that continent in 1497, and returned to report to King Henry VII that he had found India—the same mistake Columbus had made. He died not knowing that he had made discoveries on a new continent and had paved the way for the opening up of that great New World.

DISEASE, PLANE STOWAWAY
In 1930, South America saw the spread of a malarial type mosquito that never before had been seen in that New World, and it is believed the invasion came from one mosquito, a stowaway on an airplane from the African continent.

The Jack of hearts and led the diamond nine. West covered and dummy's ace won. Six spade tricks were played, and West was forced to find four diamonds. Two were easy, a heart and a club. He had to hold two diamonds, and elected to blank the heart king. Jaeger then led the club queen, overtook with the ace and followed with the ace of hearts, dropping the king. Thus he made six spades, three diamonds, and the ace of clubs.

Personal Health Service

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

CARDIOVASCULAR DEGENERATION

Degeneration sounds unpleasant to the layman and to the medical man. Medically it has no particular reference to ethical or moral conduct or character, but merely expresses the antithesis or opposite to generation. Generation means origination, production, development, growth. So when doctors speak of cardiovascular degeneration they mean weakening, impairment, breaking down, wearing out, decline or loss of efficiency of the heart and arteries.

Cardiovascular degeneration includes myocarditis (slow heart muscle failure), arteriosclerosis (hardening of arteries), apoplexy (cerebral hemorrhage, stroke of paralysis), from rupture of a small artery and bleeding into the brain or from clotting of blood in an artery in the brain where circulation has slowed down—thrombosis, this is called) angina pectoris, coronary thrombosis (clotting of blood in an artery in the heart wall) and chronic interstitial nephritis (commonly called chronic Bright's disease—from degeneration of small arterial terminal branches in the substance of the kidneys).

It is almost notorious that doctors can't cure these various manifestations of cardiovascular degeneration. Trouble is, doctors seldom get a chance to do anything about it, because rarely does the victim of cardiovascular degeneration come under medical observation before his condition has progressed too far, beyond hope of regeneration or repair. Only occasionally does a doctor get a chance to detect cardiovascular degeneration in its early stage or incipient when proper medical and hygienic treatment or advice might possibly reverse the process or at least stay progress of the degeneration and prolong the individual's life and efficiency. Even when the individual does by chance come under medical observation in the early stage of cardiovascular degeneration he or she is not likely to take the doctor's advice very seriously, for the reason that in this stage there are few symptoms or signs to give the individual any anxiety. The doctor is just trying to scare him, he thinks. In the preceding talk about the case of a man 68 years old who had always been so well, so strong—except for a few months before coronary thrombosis caused his death. In these few months the man complained of only a heavy feeling over his chest when he walked—but, pahaw, the feeling would pass off in five or ten minutes if he just sat still.

Of course it might have been too late then for a doctor to do more than palliate the distress, but there it is. The individual with cardiovascular degeneration just will not take the trouble or expense of going to a doctor periodically for a health test. Time enough for that when he is convinced something ails him.

(Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady, if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instructions. Address Dr. William Brady, 265 El Camino South, Beverly Hills, Calif.)

Believe Churchill Asks Final Effort

LONDON, Aug. 3.—(CP)—Editorials in London afternoon newspapers interpreted Prime Minister Churchill's war report to the House of Commons yesterday as a call for a final effort toward an earlier complete victory.

The Evening News said the Prime Minister's reference to Japan was "one of the surprises of the speech," adding "that sense of growing Japanese weakness at sea and in the air to which he referred must be considerable to have occasioned so significant a change of estimate."

Said the Evening Star: "Mr. Churchill felt able to say that the interval between Hitler's defeat and Japan's may be shorter than once he could hope. Such words spur every one of us in this supreme moment."

British Advancing To Burma Border

KANDY, Ceylon, Aug. 3.—(CP)—British troops are advancing on the Tiddim Road leading out of East India behind heavy artillery and air support, allied headquarters announced last night.

In the sector around besieged Tamu, near the Burma border, broken Japanese forces attacked constantly by machine-guns in the hills, were reported fleeing swiftly.

In the north, east of fallen Ukhrul and toward Chindwin, starvation in a countryside denuded of its rice, was reported speeding an enemy withdrawal.

New Nazi Tank
WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, Aug. 3.—(CP)—A damaged German tank of a type hitherto unseen in Normandy was found yesterday by Canadians in the St. Andre Sur Orne area, south of Caen. Observers said it appeared to be either a Panther tank mounting an 88-millimetre gun, or a Tiger with a new type of turret.

McCoy Health Service

Every infant is born with a pair of sound, normal tonsils, and if right habits of living were followed, diseased and enlarged tonsils would be very rare. In childhood the tonsils are much larger than later, and it is likely that they do their most important work during the growing period. The tonsils are a part of the defence system of the body, and apparently are placed in the throat for a definite purpose, their chief work being to combat infection through their filtering activity.

When it is necessary for the tonsil to screen out an excessive quantity of waste material, it will respond by enlarging its working capacity which entails a corresponding increase in size. The tonsil which is enlarged is by no means always a diseased tonsil, and many surgeons recognizing this fact now advise that the enlarged tonsil should be left in the throat.

The most common cause of either enlargement or disease of the tonsil is incorrect diet. The child who is fed on an excess of starches and sugars to the exclusion of other kinds of food such as meat and vegetables, is the child most likely to have tonsil difficulties. The primary cause of sick tonsils is a systemic cause, a cause arising from the toxic condition built up by faulty diet and faulty elimination.

Cutting out the tonsils does not remove the basic cause and does not possibly remove the causes which brought about the enlargement in the first place. There is a reason why tonsils become swollen and inflamed, why they discharge, why they become ragged and cryptic from continued inflammation and infection. That reason is found in the factors of living which affect the health of the entire body. The tonsils take the brunt of the attack because of their position in the defensive system.

The logical treatment of tonsil troubles is a treatment which cleanses the bloodstream of accumulated waste materials. The desired result will be accomplished most rapidly by placing the patient on a fast. After the fasting period the patient must then be given a more careful diet, omitting starches and sugars for a time. With the diet treatment, it is important to secure regular exercise, and plenty of fresh air and sleep will also prove valuable. The skin elimination must be increased by daily baths and particular attention must be given to the colon, as constipation is usually present and must be overcome.

In a few cases, the tonsils may be so bad there is no hope of saving them, but it is my belief that most patients can be helped in such a way that the tonsils will return to normal and these structures will then remain perfectly healthy.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address: McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Smashed From the Air, Wrecked Railway Cars and Tanks Pile Up Behind Nazi Armies

This is the type of bomb which is doing all the damage shown in the succeeding pictures. A 500-pound demolition, it is being loaded into a Mustang.

Carrying supplies to Nazi forces in Italy, this railroad car was blasted right off the tracks by a well aimed bomb at Orvieto, vital railroad junction.

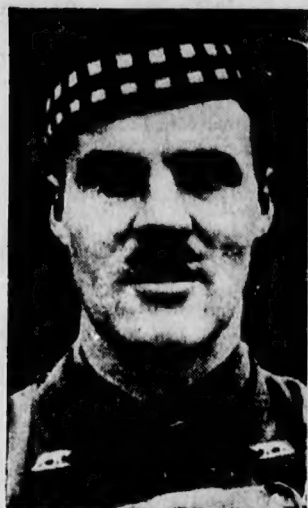

Hanging as if by a thread, the axle and wheels of a railroad car were blown into the ceiling of a building when Allied bombers attacked Siena, central Italy.

Evidence of their accurate and deadly fire is seen by these P-47 pilots clambering over a knocked-out German Panzer tank on a road somewhere in France.

These Five Canadians Have Won the Victoria Cross in the Present War

First VC winner, Lt-Col. Cecil C. I. Merritt, Vancouver, won the award for his bravery at Dieppe while leading the South Saskatchewan Regiment against terrific fire. His wife and family reside in Belleville.

Second VC winner, Maj. Ferguson Moey, also of Vancouver, was the first Canadian to whom the award was made posthumously. Twice wounded, he led a charge against heavy Japanese fire in Burma.

Third VC winner, Maj. Paul Triquet of Cabano, Que., was first French-Canadian to win the medal in this war. Called the hero of the Sase Bernardi, he was honored for his bravery and leadership in Italy.

Fourth VC winner was Maj. Jack K. Mahony, New Westminster, B.C. Despite strong enemy resistance, he led his men down to and across the River Melfa in Italy to establish an initial bridgehead.

Fifth VC winner, Flt-Lt. David (Bud) Hornell, Mimico, was the first RCAF member to win the award in this war. He destroyed a Nazi U-boat off Iceland after his plane was damaged. He later died from exposure at sea.

Waiting For Allies, Claim Nazis

By LOUIS V. HUNTER

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, Aug. 3.—(CP)—In the first good flying weather since Canadian forces launched their latest series of attacks against Tilly La Campagne, typhoons last yesterday blasted the small but stubborn German stronghold south of Caen with rockets and attacked enemy armored formations.

Fear of Change Slows Progress Says Solon Low

Solon Low, national leader of the Social Credit party and Alberta provincial treasurer, in an address prepared for delivery over a Canadian Broadcasting Corporation national network last night, said Canada, along with other nations of the world, has to make a choice "which may decide the fate of this nation for many years to come."

"The difference between the two ways of life—state socialism and genuine democracy—is centred in monopoly," he said. Monopoly meant exclusive central control of things people want in any field.

OFTEN MISUNDERSTOOD He said the reason Social Crediters are often misunderstood is because their message is not of the existing order.

"It is the message of a new civilization, inspired by the vision of unlimited possibilities which would open to men and women if only they would have the courage to cast out their groundless fear of change."

With the existing economic arrangements, Mr. Low said, most of our people are forced to accept the wages and working conditions imposed by others.

Social Credit's answer to that problem is simple, he said. A portion of the national income would be distributed as a national dividend to everybody. This would assure the people basic economic security.

PLACE NEEDS LESS He said the Canadian government now is paying for "a far greater portion of our production at the present than would be required to provide dividends for our people."

"Only we are giving it away to Canada's enemies in the form of bombs, shells and instruments of war."

Social Credit was being misinterpreted to the Canadian people as "a crackpot monetary reform scheme," but it was a way of life which concerned itself with every phase of our social system.

Court Officials Trifle Startled

Courthouse officials are accustomed to many strange happenings but they were a trifle startled at what occurred Thursday morning nevertheless.

A middle-aged man walked into supreme court offices and asked for the $1,000 cheque "that is here as a reward for turning in the murderer of Fred Oliver."

Fred Oliver, a garage attendant, was murdered in the Dominion Motors Ltd. premises on 102 street, in 1936.

On being questioned the man told the court officials he had "heard on the radio the $1,000 was at the court for me."

It was all news indeed to the court workers and the man departed without the sum he sought.

City Soldier Now Serving Overseas

Staff Sergeant Percy Hawkins, formerly in the office of the area commandant at Edmonton, is serving overseas with the Allied Military government of Occupied Territory.

In Britain at the present time he expects to go to the continent in an administrative capacity in the near future.

By LOUIS V. HUNTER

WITH THE CANADIANS IN FRANCE, Aug. 3.—(CP)—The Nazis chose the Canadian front south of Caen to launch for the first time a secret weapon from the vaunted "V" arsenal, a robot tank rather similar in design and dimensions to the Canadian army's Universal Carrier. The new robot blows up with an explosion theoretically strong enough to wipe out everyone caught in the blast and at least demoralize those who witness its effects.

Seven of the fantastic robots, believed known as "V4," recently approached a forward position held by Ontario troops around Verrieres in broad daylight. None got close enough to cause casualties or serious damage.

Of the seven robots that infantrymen watched cruise across the field with wireless masts swaying, two blew themselves up and sent colossal plumes of fire and black smoke into the air. Before the others could be manoeuvred into effective position they were destroyed by anti-tank guns and Platoon mortars.

The vehicle is fully tracked, about four feet high, made of light armor and has a tall mast, indicating some wireless connection with the rear. It still is not definitely established whether the vehicle is manned or controlled remotely because initial reports are conflicting.

Three enemy tanks in the background during the attack led the first observers to state the "V4" was controlled from them by wireless. Later reports said each vehicle was driven up by one man who abandoned it and guided it to the target by wireless from a sheltered position and then crawled back to his own lines.

Synod Parley Hears Reports Mission Work

The Rev. V. L. Meyer, speaking Wednesday at Concordia College to delegates attending a convention of the Alberta and British Columbia district of the Lutheran church, Missouri synod, said that the trailer mission is an innovation in the mission work of the Lutheran church.

The trailer mission is of great value in new housing communities and trailer camps located in industrial centres of the United States and along the Alaska Highway, he said.

Pastor of the Bethlehem Lutheran church and secretary of missions, Mr. Meyer gave reports on the general church convention held in Saginaw, Mich. He also told of mission work of the church in South America and Africa. A native ministry is being trained in Brazil and Argentina and 18 natives are doing this work in the latter country, he said.

President of the Alberta and British Columbia district of the Lutheran Church, Missouri synod, the Rev. W. C. Eifert of Leduc opened the convention which is to last for five days. The Rev. A. Gehring of Craigmyle conducted the divine service.

The afternoon meeting featured a panel discussion on the work of the circuit supervisor. Taking part were: the Rev. A. Appelt, Waskow; the Rev. L. Liske, Hines Creek; the Rev. C. C. Janow, Vernon, B.C.; the Rev. V. Eichenlaub, Lethbridge; and the Rev. A. J. Mueller, Edmonton. Leading the discussion was the Rev. W. A. Rasdeke, Calgary.

Post-War Program Under Discussion

City commissioners and City Engineer A. W. Haddow were Thursday discussing the form a proposed $5,000,000 program of post-war construction in the city will take.

It is expected that a report will be made to council at an early date.

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin

Numbered arrows indicate half a dozen great Red army victories, the capture of (1) Rostov, (2) Dugavits, (3) Belyost, (4) crossing of the Volga (Vistula), (5) taking of Lwow, and (6) of Stanislawow. West Litovsk and Gaus have also been occupied. East Prussia and, further south, Eastern Silesia, both German territory, are threatened, and a road to Berlin may be opening up, though the Nazis are likely to make a last desperate stand on their home territory if that is still a possibility, one which must not be overlooked. In the extreme south, occupied Czechoslovakia and Axis Hungary and Romania are threatened.

Advance Vote For Election Started Here

Advance voting in Edmonton started at 2 p.m. Thursday, for convenience of city electors who will be out of the city on regular voting day, Tuesday, Aug. 8.

The advance poll is being conducted at headquarters of J. H. Crawford, city returning officer, 9832 Jasper avenue, and will continue until Saturday evening. Hours of voting are from 2 to 5 p.m., and from 7 to 10 p.m. The returning officer has requested advance voters to bring enumerators' slips with them when they vote, in order to save clerical labor.

Early estimates of the advance vote point to more than 2,000 ballots being cast by those going on vacations at the week-end, as well as others whose business takes them out of the city.

At least 500 city members of the Reserve Army, leaving for summer camp at the week-end will vote at the advance poll. Similar advance voting takes place this week-end at a number of larger Alberta centres.

$49,000 Paid Back Pensions 2,552 Persons

Covering adjustment in pension payments back to April 1, approximately $49,000 in cheques has been sent this week to 2,552 old age pensioners and 28 blind pensioners in the province, according to pension board officers Thursday.

The cheques adjust pensions of the 2,580 recipients, bringing their incomes into conformity with a new Dominion-Provincial pension agreement announced last June by the Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer.

The new rates will involve an additional $12,250 a month in pensions, to be distributed to one-quarter of provincial pensioners.

$495 A YEAR

The new pension agreement allows an old-age pensioner to receive a total income from pensions and earnings of $485 a year, and a blind pensioner a total of $560 a year. In the case of married couples where only one is eligible for a pension, a larger permissible income is allowed.

On Sept. 1, 1943, the Dominion government put into effect reductions in the amounts of incomes which would be permitted pensioners before deductions would be made from pensions. The June agreement cancelled the reductions, permissible incomes of old age pensioners being restored to $125 a year from $65.

Bracken May Seek Seat in Manitoba

OTTAWA, Aug. 3.—(CP)—John Bracken, Progressive Conservative national leader, intends to run in a Manitoba constituency in the forthcoming federal general election. Senator John Haig, acting leader of the party in the Senate, said yesterday in the Senate.

There had been considerable speculation as to where Mr. Bracken would seek nomination and it had been suggested it might be in his native county of Leeds, Ont.

Sensor Haig, a close friend of the national leader, however, said he was definite "John Bracken will run in the west, in the province in which he has spent most of his life." He added Mr. Bracken would campaign for a fair deal for farmers who had never been able to get their share of the national income.

Two Buildings Not Available For City Housing

Hopes that Edmonton might secure relief for home-seeking residents through obtaining the Jesuit College building and the U.S.E.D. quarters formerly occupied by Bechtel-Price-Callahan at 113 street and Jasper Avenue, were blasted Monday, when Mayor John W. Fry received word from Ottawa that these buildings would not be made available for residential purposes.

On the other hand, negotiations for obtaining about 20 hutments formerly used by the U.S. Army at Camp 550 in the Calder district, are proceeding "satisfactorily" and there is every reason to believe these buildings will soon be made available for residential purposes.

Mayor Fry recently had written Dominion authorities suggesting that steps be taken to obtain these buildings for relief of congestion here and the whole question of housing in Edmonton was scheduled for discussion by the war committee of the Dominion cabinet Wednesday.

NOT KNOWN Just what use the former Jesuit College buildings will be put to after being vacated by the Northwest Service Command of the U.S. Army in a few weeks is not known. The most persistent rumor is to the effect the buildings will become some form of a convalescent rehabilitation centre for returning servicemen.

U.S. authorities plan to concentrate all staffs working on American projects in the BPC building, which may necessitate occupancy of the premises for months and even years.

The hutments at the former Camp 550 will house about 100 families when made into suites, officials in the offices of Maj.-Gen. W. W. Foster, C.M.G., D.S.O., V.D., special Canadian command officer for Northwest projects, said.

LOVED BY TENNYSON HASLEMERE, Surrey, Eng. (CP)—Black Down, favorite haunt of Tennyson the poet, has been presented to the National Trust by E. W. Hunter. The property covers 498 acres between Haslemere and Fernhurst, Sussex.

Standard Oil Will Continue Operate Canol

The Standard Oil Company of Alaska, with headquarters in Whitehorse, Y.T., Canada, is now and will continue to operate and maintain the Canol refinery at Whitehorse and the pipeline system between Whitehorse, Norman Wells and points in Alaska and Northwest Canada, it was announced Thursday by the Northwest Service Command.

This organization also will be responsible for maintenance of the pipeline access road from the Wells to the refinery. This road is not a general transport highway, but was constructed solely so that the pipeline and pumping stations could be built and maintained.

FIRST PLANNED When the Canol Project was first planned by the United States War Department early in 1942, the Standard Oil Company of California was requested by the War Department to operate and maintain the pipeline and refinery facilities upon completion. The company readily undertook the assignment on a purely non-profit basis as a contribution to the war effort, and contracts were entered into. In order to effectively discharge the obligation of its contracts, the Standard Oil of California, which was not set up to operate in Canada, formed a wholly-owned subsidiary, the Standard Oil Company (Alaska), whose headquarters are in Whitehorse, to operate and maintain the Canol refinery and pipeline system as a contractor to the United States War Department.

The sole objective of the Standard Oil Company (Alaska) is to operate and maintain the Canol refinery and pipeline system as a contractor to the United States War Department.

NO JURISDICTION

It is not in any way engaged in commercial oil operation; it has no ownership nor proprietary interest in the physical facilities, the crude petroleum, nor in the products produced in the refinery; it has absolutely no jurisdiction or control over the dispensing of products nor over the price of petroleum products. The Standard Oil Company (Alaska) has no corporate or operating tie-in, nor in fact any connection, with the Imperial Oil Limited. The latter company produces the Norman Wells crude oil and pumps it under the Mackenzie River under supervision of United States Army authorities to the Camp Canol tank farm, where the Standard Oil Company (Alaska) assumes responsibility for the material. This crude oil is then pumped over the 600-mile pipeline to the Whitehorse refinery, where products are made and dispensed through the gasoline tank farms and gasoline pipelines, wholly under direction from United States Army authorities.

Safeflowers Take Cash and Cheques

Thieves who broke into and entered the Mundare Co-operative store sometime Wednesday night, blew open the safe and took $200 in cash and $300 worth of cheques, according to word reaching RCMP headquarters in Edmonton Thursday morning.

Details of the offense were not made available and police are conducting an investigation.

Goering Appoints New Staff Chief For Air Forces

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—(AP)—Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering has appointed Lt.-Gen. Werner Kreipe as chief of the general staff of the German air force to succeed Col.-Gen. Guenther Korten, who was killed in the explosion of a bomb intended for Hitler, a DNB broadcast said yesterday.

Kreipe formerly was in charge of air training.

The BBC said in a German-language broadcast that according to Stockholm reports the attack July 20 upon Hitler and his military associates was made in Interburg, a city in East Prussia 57 miles east of Konigsberg.
